Canadians Fight Inside Germany

American Troops Capture Six German Anchor Towns

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—American forces captured Langerwehe, biggest German-held town west of Duren, and five other anchor towns of the yielding Nazi defences before the Roer river line today in slow but steady gains along a 16-mile front aimed at Cologne.

Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army tanks, tank destroyers and infantry routed the last German troops from the fortress like cellars of Langerwehe, five miles west of Duren.

On either side of already bypassed Langerwehe, the Americans seized Kosler, Frenz, Jungersdorf, Kleinhau and Hurtgen in violent fighting that now posed direct threats to Duren and Julich, main strongholds of the Roer river line.

ENTER LAMERSDORF

First Army troops also drove into Lamersdorf, six miles northwest of Duren, but a violent counter attack shoved them back to its southern outskirts. The Americans reformed and attacked again, re-entering Lamersdorf and engaging the Nazis in fighting through its streets.

Hodges was revealed to have expanded his offensive with new attacks in the area of Vossenack, two miles below Hurtgen. Field dispatches reported gains north and northeast of Vossenack.

Lt.-Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth Army reached the Roer along a 5½ mile front, and the Nazis

Premier Scores Speculation on Refunding Plan

Recent newspaper reports of a refunding plan for Alberta's public debt were branded "sheer speculation" Wednesday by Premier Ernest Manning.

"No statement has been issued by the government on the matter of refunding," Mr. Manning said. "Any reports published are only speculation."

The newspaper reports, published at conclusion of last week's Social Credit party caucus, purported to outline a new refunding scheme qow before the government.

BROAD LIMITS

Of the refunding discussions in caucus, the premier said certain broad limits to any refunding scheme were defined. The government will now proceed in an endeavor to negotiate within these defined limits.

Asked on the comment on the reports, Mr. Manning said "Newspapers by publishing such speculative reports are doing a serious dis-service to the province of Alberta in that such speculations are often accepted in distant financial circles as authentic.

"These inexcusable reports can do no possible good and can only materially prejudice negotiations towards a satisfactory and equitable settlement of Alberta's debt problem."

In Secret

House Given Information About Forces

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The House of Commons adjourned last night after a six-hour secret session during which Defence Minister McNaughton gave information about Canadian armed forces.

The session, the first secret session since 1942 and the third since the beginning of the war, was given as facts that for security reasons could not be made public.

The sitting began at 1 p.m. MDT, and adjourned at 5 p.m., for the dinner recess. The members returned to their seats at 8 p.m. MDT, and remained behind closed doors until 9 p.m.

STATEMENT ISSUED

At the adjournment, Speaker J. A. Glen issued the following statement:

"The House of Commons held a secret sitting yesterday. General the Honorable A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of national defence, was present and gave information respecting the Canadian forces."

Under the defence of Canada regulations the speaker's statement was all that could be published on the sitting.

Wednesday the Commons will resume its public sittings and continue debate on the government's vote of confidence motion.

Col. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister, is expected to participate in today's debate and possibly will indicate how he will vote on the confidence motion.

While the secret session, originally expected to last only an hour, was in progress, tension remained at the high level that has prevailed since the passage of an order-in-council making 16,000 draftees available for service overseas.

Three Progressive Conservative members, Joseph Harris, Toronto Danforth, Hon. W. Earl Rowe, Dufferin-Simcoe, and C. E. Desmond, Bow River, remained away from the sitting because they were opposed to the house meeting in secret.

Some Quebec Liberals, however, said they were not entirely in agreement with what Maj. Gen. LaFlèche said. J. F. Pouliot, (Ind. Lib.—Temiscouata) said Gen. LaFlèche was "talking through his hat."

Other members said some of their Quebec colleagues felt conscience bound by their "no conscription promises" to withdraw their support from the government on the issue either by crossing the floor of the House or by voting against the government on the confidence motion.

Situation in Army Camps Controlled

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The situation in British Columbia army camps "is being carefully watched and completely controlled," Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the Commons. He was answering a question from Hon. R. B. Hanson, (PC—York-Sunbury).

Mr. King said he had assurance to that effect from Defence Minister McNaughton. Mr. King said he took exception to Mr. Hanson's use of the words "rather alarming reports of mutiny" when he asked what the government "proposes to do or has done."

"It is not mutiny," said Mr. King. "Most decidedly not. At a difficult time such as this it becomes the duty of all members of the house to refrain from making a very difficult situation more difficult."

8th Army Meeting Savage Resistance

ROME, Italy, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—Eighth Army troops pushing north between the Lamone and Montone rivers have met savage resistance in the Alberetо area about eight miles northeast of Faenza, Allied headquarters reported today.

British and Indian troops of the Fifth Army advanced north and west of Modigliana, south of Faenza and American troops beat off two strong raids on their positions south of Bologna. Elsewhere on the Italian front action was limited to patrols.

Mediterranean Allied air force headquarters reported that bad weather restricted operations yesterday but that 470 sorties were flown from which three aircraft were missing.

Planes attacked bridges in the Po valley, hit shipping in the Spezia habor and raided enemy positions in the battle area.

Report Ralston To Vote Against Motion of King

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Maurice Bourget, member of parliament for Levis in Quebec since 1940, today crossed the floor of the Commons and said later he will sit as an independent.

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Quebec Liberal members of the House of Commons are considering the possibility of expressing their opposition to conscription in an amendment to the government's vote of confidence motion, a prominent Quebec Liberal today told The Canadian Press.

Other Liberal sources said that Col. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister, would state in the Commons when he speaks, either today or tomorrow, that he was dissatisfied with the government's partial conscription plans and consequently would oppose Prime Minister Mackenzie King's confidence motion.

Earlier reports had been that Col. Ralston might support the government on the confidence vote. However, following yesterday's secret session Liberals expressed themselves as convinced that he would vote against the government.

PLANS INCOMPLETE

The Quebec Liberal said that plans to submit the amendment were not completed and it was not known who would move it or when it would be presented.

The member said that most Quebec members felt they would be in a position to support the government on the confidence vote after they had expressed in an amendment their disapproval of the passage of an order-in-council authorizing the drafting of 16,000 home defence troops overseas.

"We would support the amendment and then we would choose the lesser of two evils," said the member. The amendment would show that Quebec members did not support the conscription policy. The support of the government on the confidence vote would show that they felt that the government's partial conscription policy was more acceptable than total conscription which might be enforced if Mr. King resigned and was succeeded by another.

PREMIER'S PLAN

Mr. King told the commons Monday that he would resign unless he got sufficient support in the confidence motion from those in his own party.

"There were reports that Col. Ralston would be asked to head a government if the government was defeated on the confidence motion or if it resigned after receiving only a small majority. The reports said that Col. Ralston would be asked to form a government either entirely of Liberal ministers or a Union government.

Liberal said, however, that the present government would have a sufficient majority to carry on, particularly if the Quebec Liberals voted for the government on the main motion.

DECIDED AT CAUCUS

The suggestion that Quebec members present an amendment was believed to have originated at a caucus they held yesterday. War Service Minister LaFleche said on leaving the caucus that there would be no bolters from the Liberal party.

Robot Attacks

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—The Air and Home Security Ministries announced that enemy air activity, presumably German flying bomb attacks, continued against Southern England during the night and early today. Some damage and casualties were caused.

Elderly Resident Collapses, Dies

Collapsing outside the Civic block about 11 a.m. Wednesday 80-year-old H. G. Sarrell, 9566 101 avenue, was rushed in a police car to the Royal Alexandra hospital where it was found he was dead.

He was walking on 102 avenue and had reached the lane on the east side of the Civic block when he collapsed.

Lifted from the snow, he was taken into the Civic block and removed a few minutes later to a police car in an unconscious condition.

Survived Mine Explosion, Edmonton Sailor Returns

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—AB. Maurice E. G. Lay of Edmonton, one of six survivors of a Canadian motor gun boat which struck a German mine off the French coast in July, arrived in Canada recently aboard a hospital ship, a naval press release said last night.

Still encased in a light plaster cast, Lay has no detailed picture of what happened when a tiny MGB touched off several hundred pounds of high explosive.

"I was on deck amidships, just aft of the bridge," he said. "I was thrown into the air and when I came down the ship was gone. I was dazed—not really unconscious —but I had my life jacket on and that's all that saved me."

Lay said AB. Phillip Durnford of Orillia, who had been at the stern and escaped injury, pushed a floating gas tank over to him and another injured companion. They were picked up in a few minutes by another MGB which had been so close that debris rained down on her deck.

The six survivors of the 17-man crew were taken back to the Allied beachhead in Normandy and later to England.

Lay lived at 8836 94 street, Edmonton before enlisting. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cameron, now live at Cedarville, B.C.

AB. Lay was born here Jan. 27, 1921. He enlisted in the RCNVR at HMCS Nonsuch March 23, 1943, as an ordinary seaman. He was posted to active service April 26, 1942, and on June 30 of the same year left here for another station. Prior to enlistment he was an apprentice cutter at the Great Western Garment Company.

8th National CCF Meeting Is Under Way

MONTREAL, Nov. 29—(CP)—The eighth national convention of the CCF party got under way today, with its main purpose the adoption of a draft of a federal election manifesto, after hearing addresses by national leader M. J. Coldwell, national chairman Frank Scott and national secretary David Lewis.

Mr. Coldwell's stand and that of the other party members in the House of Commons on the draft issue is expected to come under review of the convention next Friday, last day of the convention with keen interest being shown in possible attitude of the more than 35 Quebec delegates attending the sittings.

Dr. Frank Scott of McGill university, national chairman of the CCF party, speaking in both French and English, said untimely "is the heart and centre of monopolistic capitalism which we will remove."

QUEBEC OUTLOOK

He referred to the "particular outlook" of Canada, "the problems of the majority of Quebec residents because of their French origin, and their attachment to French and Catholic traditions."

"We are now laying the foundations of a new epoch in Canadian history," Dr. Scott said, "an epoch in which there will be in the country a degree of national unity greater than ever before because it will be based on economic equality and the removal of racial prejudice."

Voting Set-Up

New Conditions Face Members In House Crisis

By JAMES McCOOK

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Members of the House of Commons, accustomed to the simple fashion of Liberals voting against Conservatives and vice versa, face conditions in the present "crisis session" such as this:

1—Col. J. L. Ralston resigned as defence minister when his recommendation for overseas conscription was rejected by the cabinet. Gen. McNaughton succeeded him as the supporter of voluntary methods of obtaining men. But now Gen. McNaughton appears before the House to show the need of conscripting 16,000 men and Col. Ralston questions him as a private member.

CHANGE BY POWER

2—Air Minister Power, who risked his political future in Quebec in 1942 by favoring conscription if necessary, has resigned when the government decided to impose limited conscription last week.

3—Prime Minister Mackenzie King says he would gladly lay down his burdens of leadership, if the House has more confidence in someone else.

4—Members speak of the possibility of the government being defeated by the extraordinary combination of total conscription and anti-conscription votes. This would represent an uneasy alliance of Progressive Conservatives and anti-conscription members of the Liberal party.

VIEW OF LIBERALS

5—Some Liberals say they can vote against the government policy on conscription and still remain within the party.

6—The whole crisis has developed on the eve of a general election, which must be held in a few months, and conscription as an election issue is something many members do not want.

Draftee Regiment Still at Terrace; Armed Violence Does Not Materialize

TERRACE, B.C., Nov. 29.—(CP)—A troop train scheduled to leave here yesterday carrying an English-speaking regiment of home defence troops to another British Columbia point was still standing empty on a siding here at noon, PDT, today.

(Late last night a Pacific Command spokesman said word had been received that the train had left Terrace at 7 p.m. PDT, Tuesday on schedule and without incident).

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, general officer commanding Pacific Command, said in a prepared statement last night that the Saskatchewan unit, which had been given a coast defence role, was prevented from entraining by pickets of other units in Terrace.

SMALL PARADES HELD

The liquor store and beer parlors in Terrace remained closed today at the request of military authorities. Small parades formed this forenoon and moved about the business section for a brief period, but there were no disorders.

Meanwhile all was quiet in five other British Columbia towns where week-end protests were made by home defence troops, but parading broke out at a new point when a minor demonstration was staged at Port Alberni on Vancouver Island where about 200 men walked through the streets for an hour carrying anti-conscription banners.

At Vancouver a statement was issued by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, general officer commanding in chief, Pacific Command, saying

Stalin Reveals:

Russian Army Forces Danube, Driving West

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—Premier Josef Stalin announced tonight that the Red Army forced the Danube river north of Pecs, Drava, which flows into it 130 miles south of Budapest, and broke through the defense of this area's bank.

Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army smashed across the Danube, advanced 25 miles on a 90-mile front, and captured more than 330 Hungarian towns, Stalin reported in an order of the day broadcast from Moscow.

Tolbukhin's drive was aimed squarely at Lake Balaton, the strategic importance of which has been emphasized by military analysts for centuries. Beyond it lies Austria.

Simultaneously, the Soviet 2nd and 4th Ukrainian armies linked up in a solid 90-mile front across the flooded mountain roads of eastern Slovakia in northeastern Hungary and crushed slowly westward against bitter enemy resistance.

Berlin military commentators reported without confirmation that a furious battle was raging on the immediate approaches to Pecs, 100 miles south-southwest of Budapest. The enemy reports said three Soviet tank formations were converging on the city after forcing a new crossing of the Danube 22 miles to the east and capturing the west bank city of Mohacs.

Government Apparently Has Gained in Strength After Closed Sessions

By CHESTER A. BLOOM

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—The government has apparently gained strength as the result of the closed house sessions Tuesday afternoon and evening. The situation, however, remains critical, due to the uncertainty as to the attitude that will be taken by Col. J. L. Ralston toward the government's conscription order in council. If the ex-minister of defence announces his intention of voting against his former colleagues, party lines may be very seriously weakened.

General McNaughton presented the House yesterday with exhaustive statistics on the entire overseas and home military situation.

Though the law forbids even comment on such secret sessions of parliament, it seemed clear that Mr. King was satisfied his policy was gaining more support.

TORIES IN RAGE

One measure of this fact is the attitude of the Progressive Conservative opposition. From the first strategy of trying to win over extreme conscriptionist Liberals by merely urging conscription and avoiding generalized attacks on the government, the Conservative right wingers have moved gradually from disappointment, irritation and chagrin to downright rage.

It is understood that Hon. Earl Rowe, Cons., Dufferin-Simcoe, is preparing to launch a blistering attack on the whole record of the Mackenzie King government when his turn comes to

Minorities Cause Draftee Trouble

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Defence Minister McNaughton said today in an interview that any distur bances among home defence troops, chiefly in British Columbia, were due to a comparatively small minority in each unit.

"Some of these men were drafted three years ago," he said. "At first they developed an anti-persecution complex. Then they changed to a defensive complex and finally instead of being ashamed of being Zombies, were proud of it. They are the ones who are stirring up the others in their units."

Gen. McNaughton said generally about 75 per cent or more of the personnel of the units were passive but the trouble was being caused by the other 25 per cent who, in varying intensities, were exceedingly active.

He was hopeful the situation with some would be straightened out satisfactorily.

Weather in City Will Moderate

Official forecast for the Edmonton and area is "increasing cloudiness, fresh winds and moderating temperatures."

Maximum temperature yesterday was 4 above and the minimum, -7. Overnight the temperature dropped to -18, and at 2 p.m. stood at 8. The estimated high for today is 8 above. Estimated overnight low is 2, and the high for tomorrow, 20.

Jury Considers Fate of Accused In Murder Case

Pte. Edward Whitford, MM, was found guilty by a jury in supreme court on Wednesday afternoon of manslaughter, and was sentenced to 10 years at the Prince Albert penitentiary by Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd. He took the verdict and sentence with a shrug of resignation and seemed that the sentence date from time of arrest.

Fate of Pte. Edgar Whitford, MM, Veterans' Guard of Canada, rested with a supreme court jury Wednesday afternoon. Whitford is on trial charged with the murder of Charlotte Hunter, 22-year-old Goodfish Lake Cree Indian, on Sept. 3 last at the conclusion of a drinking party on the river bank near the low level bridge.

Addressing the jury, Hugh Calash Macdonald, KC, defence counsel, outlined the evidence adduced, and expressed the fact that clothes taken from the accused and sent for analysis did not carry blood marks although he witness's underclothing was heavily bloodstained.

He also stressed the fact that the most serious evidence against the accused was that given by Fred Leveille, who is also charged with the murder. This man, Mr. Macdonald said, might be fabricating his evidence to save his own neck.

MAKES COMMENT

Commenting on the lack of bloodstains on the accused's underclothing Mr. Macdonald said that a check had been made by the police at his request to determine if the

Churchill Sees No Early End to War in Europe

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill warned parliament today that the war against Germany might last longer than he had thought and that his earlier prediction might be revised by dropping the word "early" before the word "summer."

Mr. Churchill spoke after the 10th session of parliament had been opened by the King.

The Prime Minister, always outspokenly pessimistic concerning an early ending of the European struggle, had said previously that this phase of the war might last until "early summer."

Mr. Churchill gave glowing praise to the progress of the Allied armies on the Western front. He said "the enemy everywhere has been thrust back," and added that "any large and effective break-through in the German front in the region of Col-

Canadian, British Casualties In Holland 40,000—Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that there had been approximately 40,000 British and Canadian casualties in the drive into Holland and Germany.

"In these operations, including the storming of the (Scheide) Island of Walcheran which contained episodes of marvelous gallantry and great feats of arms, the British and Canadian forces suffered about 40,000 casualties," the prime minister said.

The Prime Minister announced for the first time that the port of Antwerp has finally been opened and is now receiving the large convoys of ocean-going ships, thus making an incomparable sea base available for the nourishment of the northern group of British

3rd ARMY GAINS

To the south, Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third US Army was within sight of the end of its drive across France, with the left wing already slunging through Germany's Saar and the centre and right swinging in against the border within light artillery range of Saarbrucken to the outskirts of Saarlauten, and into the streets of Saare Union.

The American Seventh Army pushed down the Rhine valley of northeastern France on the heels of the retreating Germans, and the BBC said "now has entered the fight for the Saar basin."

Supreme headquarters announced that the U.S. Third, Seventh and Ninth and French First armies had captured 53,361 prisoners since the beginning of the general offensive. Altogether the Allies have taken 735,216 prisoners since D-Day.

First Army troops captured Frenz, six miles southwest of Duren, and Kleinhau, a mile north-east of Hurtgen, after the fall of Jungersdorf, Hurtgen and Koslar to the American forces heading a hard way toward Cologne. The capture of Frenz had been reported earlier, but apparently had been lost in a counter attacking Germans.

U.S. First Army troops completed the occupation of Jungersdorf, only five and a half miles northwest of the Roer River stronghold of Duren, largest German city still in German hands west of Cologne, and also cleared Hurtgen, seven miles southwest of Duren.

(A radio broadcast from the First Army front said the First Army also had captured Langerwehe, bypassed in the advance to Jungersdorf.)

Advance elements drove a half mile northeast of Hurtgen into the outskirts of Kleinhau.

8TH TAKES KOSLAR

Koslar, one mile west of Julich, also on the Roer, fell to the Ninth Army. Ninth Army troops already were fanning out along the west bank of the Roer, Germany's projected winter defense line, around Kirchberg, one mile south of Julich.

Lt. Gen. George S. Paton's American Third Army drove into or within gun range of Germany along the length of its 100-mile front. One column was within eight miles of Saarbrucken, key to the Saar Basin, and another broke into the outskirts of Sarre Union. Saar River communications centre 2 miles south southeast of Saarbrucken.

Farther east and south, the American Seventh Army cut the German supply road between Sarreguemines and Haguenau and pushed 14 miles north of Strasbourg within three miles of Haguenau itself.

NEARING COLMAR

French First Army troops punched to within five to 10 miles from the Alsatian stronghold of Colmar and began chopping up German units cut off in the southern Vosges by their speedy dash to the Rhine last week. At least two enemy pockets were encircled.

In the past two weeks alone, the Seventh and French First armies have cleared 3,600 square miles of east France, liberated 1,140 towns and captured 29,836 prisoners.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth Army smashed the last organized resistance in Koslar, one mile west of Julich, after a lengthy and bitter street battle. Only a few dig-in hard groups of enemy remained after they were routed from cellars in which they had fortified themselves.

CAPTURE BRIDGE

Other Ninth Army infantry seized the bridge running across the Inde river, a tributary of the Roer, at Altdorf, three miles south of Julich.

Edward V. Roberts, British United Press war correspondent at the Julich front, reported a noticeable increase in enemy artillery fire along the entire Ninth Army front, with guns heavier than ever before in action threatening crossroads and supply routes behind the American lines.

A German front dispatch said the battle along the Roer front was "the most terrible and most ferocious in the history of all wars."

On Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army front, American infantry completed the bloody mop-up of Jungersdorf, three and a half miles west northwest of the Roer river stronghold of Duren, and Hurtgen, on the east edge of the Hurtgen forest seven miles southwest of Duren.

REACH KLEINHAU

The southern column pressed on another half mile from Hurtgen into the southeastern outskirts of Kleinhau. One hundred prisoners were captured at Hurtgen, bringing the First Army's bag for the past 24 hours to 385.

First Army troops also were fighting in the streets of Inden, four miles south of Julich and six miles northwest of Duren; by-passed Langerwehe, four and a half miles west northwest of Duren, and Lammersdorf, 14 miles southwest of Duren.

Rain was falling again along the Roer river front, threatening to ground Allied planes. More than 800 medium and fighter bomber came to the support of the First and Ninth Armies yesterday, bombing and strafing a score of German villages and knocking out 14 tanks.

Former Minister For Air Intends To Quit Politics

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Hon. C. G. Power, who resigned last week as air minister, yesterday said he was "through with politics" and did not plan to run for parliament again.

Member for Quebec South, Mr. Power has been in the House of Commons continuously since 1917. He plans to resume his law practice, probably in Montreal. He formerly practiced in Quebec.

Mr. Power made his statement while passing through Montreal from Ottawa en route to his summer home at St. Faeces, Kamouraska, Que., where he will recuperate from a recent appendicitis operation.

that the English-speaking unit from Saskatchewan had not been drafted for overseas service and emphasizing the regiment had been given a Pacific coast defence role and would be moved to another point in British Columbia.

SKEPTICAL OF REPORTS

A Pacific Command spokesman said army officials in Vancouver were skeptical of reports from Terrace that brigade headquarters there had stopped pay and allowance of men involved in protest parades. Declaring such action would be "unprecedented," he said army regulations made such a move unlikely.

No instructions have been sent from Pacific Command to the Sixth Division headquarters at Terrace, and Vancouver army officials were depending upon officials at Terrace to deal with the situation, the spokesman said.

Reports of the picketing of the train at Terrace came in the wake of the most potentially serious demonstration yet staged at that town. Yesterday 300 soldiers of a French-Canadian unit, most of them carrying rifles and wearing steel helmets, walked to a second camp where an English-speaking regiment is stationed.

VIOLENCE FEARED

Then an estimated 1,500 troops carrying rifles and a few Bren guns marched in ragged formation to a third camp. Approximately 1,500 did not parade in orderly fashion Saturday and the performance was repeated Monday.

Fears of possible violence were voiced last night by a soldier who said that men of both the Quebec and Saskatchewan regiments had ammunition.

"The way things are now it would be too easy to start bloodshed," said a member of the Saskatchewan unit.

Armies and the various groups of American Armies also deployed in the operations."

CANADIAN VICTORY

It was to free this port that the 1st Canadian Army waged the successful, month-long battle to clear the Scheldt Estuary. That campaign ended Nov. 9.

It has been widely stated that the powerful offensive in the west was possible largely because the Canadians succeeded in clearing that port, and the Belgian and southern Holland, thus opening up vital ports and clearing a way for the use of Antwerp, most valuable of them all.

Gen. Crerar's troops, including British, Polish, Netherlands, Belgian and American units, were ordered to take control of the Scheldt Estuary and a dirty, nightmare battle developed in bad weather and over flooded terrain. Casualties were heavy but finally the German 64th and 70th divisions were smashed and the Estuary was in Allied hands.

NAZIS DELAYED USE

British armored columns had taken Antwerp itself in September and in early October Canadians cleared the port area. But a force of nearly 80,000 Germans stayed behind on the Scheldt coast to delay its opening as long as possible. Big coastal batteries prevented ships passing up the Estuary.

In the process of building a strong base in Holland, the British and Canadian troops captured 25,000 prisoners and it was considered that the German killed and wounded probably reached a similar total.

Today's speech was the second this month in which Mr. Churchill mentioned casualties in Holland. In a speech at the Mansion House, Nov. 9, he coupled the fighting in Belgium and Holland with that in Italy, saying "in these two operations our heavy losses have been sustained in the greatest proportion by the British and Canadian forces."

He predicted then that the Scheldt victory soon would place Antwerp "at the disposal of the northern flank (of the Allied armies) which will presently move into Germany for the final struggle."

HEAVY LOSSES

Even then it was known that the Canadian forces suffered heavy casualties, particularly in the furious fighting for a bridgehead across the Leopold canal. This formidable water barrier, a double-channel with a total width of 190 feet, had to be crossed to get at the Germans in the pocket south of the Scheldt estuary.

ogne would have the highest strategic consequences."

Then pausing, he told the House:

"We must remember that the enemy whose country is invaded has also the supreme stimuli which we ourselves experienced in the very dark days of 1940 and 1941."

The Prime Minister praised the fighting of the French troops near the Swiss frontier, where they slashed through to the Rhine, and declared it showed the French Army "would rise again and that the French soldier, properly led and properly equipped, is unsurpassed."

WEATHER HANDICAP

The weather had badly hampered the British and American forces at the northern end of the front, he said, but the battle was continuing with the vigor and immediate success of the past few days.

He warned the House that hard work lay ahead in tackling a wide social problem outlined in the speech from the throne. If the war should end early next summer, he said, "we cannot accomplish more than a small part of the program" by that time.

Praising the American Armies on the western front, he declared the capture of Metz and Strasbourg as "glorious and massive achievements," and said that although American loses had been severe on northern sectors of the front the cost had been even greater to the enemy.

REVIEW LATER

He said he might give a full-fledged war review after Christmas when "it may be much easier to put hard facts and cheering facts before the House."

The House cheered as Mr. Churchill ended his long address with the assertion that the great powers "were never more closely and intimately and comprehendingly united than they are at this moment."

"The weather, which it was always customary and excusable, and even legitimate to abuse at this season of the year in those regions had made the task of American troops and that of the British on their left flank extremely difficult.

"We have not yet succeeded in driving the enemy back to the Rhine, let alone have we established a strong bridgehead on it," he said. The battle is continuing with great vigor."

IMMENSE LOSSES

Immense losses had been inflicted on the Germans. The wearing-down process here at east to United States forces, had been far greater in its effect upon the Germans.

Of course, he added, any large and effective break on the German fronts in these regions of Cologne and northwards would have the highest strategic consequences.

"I am not giving a review of the war situation today, but I mention these commanding facts in order to dissipate the lightly-founded anxieties that we can direct our eyes from the war and turn to the tasks of transition and reconstruction or political controversies and other diversions of peace which are dear to our hearts and rightly dear to the democracies in action, because without victory in arms democracies cannot achieve their heathening processes.

KEEP EYES ON FOE

"It is on the foe that our eyes must be fixed and to break his resistance down demands and will receive the most intensive exertions of Great Britain, the United States and all the United Nations and the converted satellites, all the forces that can be brought to bear. This is just the moment not to slacken.

"Of the races with the calendar, nearly all of them are won in the last lap and it is then, when one is most tired, when the sense of boredom seems to weigh upon both sides, when the most glittering, exciting, brilliant events are, as it were, covered by satiation, when the headlines in the newspapers, though perfectly true, succeed one another in their glowing colors, and yet the end seems to recede before us.

"As, when climbing a hill, when there is always another peak beyond, it is at that very moment that we in this island have to give that extra sense of exertion and effort. The boundless and inexhaustible dynamic energy that we have shown—and which, records of public opinion in detail show that we have shown during this struggle.

MUST BE TIRELESS

"Tirelessness is what we have to show now and here I must observe that it is one thing to feel this tremendous drive of energy at the beginning of the war when your country is likely to be invaded and you do not know that you will not have to die honorably—but soon (laughter)—it is one thing to exhibit those qualities which you possess in the House but never been examined from, at such a moment, and quite another to do them in the ninth year of the war.

"On the other hand, we must remember that the enemy, whose country is invaded, has also the supreme stimuli which we ourselves responded to in the very dark days of 1940."

FUNNY BUSINESS

"The outline circles are blondes and the solid ones are brunettes!"

Just False Alarm!

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Because a trap had her cat by the paw, Mrs. Russell Taylor called the law and police, who responded with all speed to see that the animal was freed.

The cat, its paw still caught by the trap, had fled from a dog whose bark and yap had chased it into a driveway drain. The police, to ease the kitty's pain, did some digging and then were quick to probe the pipe with a good long stick.

Out dashed the cat with nary a look at the cop who lunged—and fell in a brook. But the cat was caught and sent to a vet, while the police retired, both weary and wet. Then from Mrs. Taylor also learned, her cat is all right. Her pet, it seems, had gone out to roam and just that moment had come back home.

speak. Mr. Rowe, it is said, disagrees with the more mollifying attitude of house leader Gordon Graydon.

The effect of such an attack likely will be to solidify those wavering Liberal members who are still not wholly converted to the government's conscription policy. It will tend also to drive back into the fold the French Canadian Quebec rebels who feel they have been betrayed by easy implications that they had nothing to fear from Bill 80. It has been steadily pressed upon these Quebec members that by leaving the government, they might create a situation where some kind of a conscriptionist coalition might triumph and proceed not only to isolate Quebec from the rest of Canada but endeavor to punish that province by means of economic discrimination.

POINT TO BE RAISED

Another point that is pretty certain to be raised in the debate is that of the highly-important place Canada occupies as a purveyor of food to the Allied armies. Some liberal members, it is said, are preparing to emphasize the fact that the 60,000 home defence force men have furnished each summer a large quota of farm help in Canada.

These members take the position that the food power of Canada is only second to its military power in importance and that no NRMA man, or general service man, for that matter, should be taken or allowed to go overseas when his services are needed more on the land than on the fighting fronts.

Both the minister of labor, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, the minister of agriculture, are said to be considerably exercised over the possibility of a situation where public sentiment for reinforcements of the overseas forces may obscure the equal necessity of continued large food production at home.

dealing with the varied success of the CCF in provincial general and by-elections and federal by-elections. Secretary David Lewis referred to the success of the party in Saskatchewan and said it was of the "utmost importance that the first democratic Socialist government has come to power in an overwhelmingly rural province."

ALBERTA "DISAPPOINTING"

The party had polled "encouraging votes in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island general elections but the results in Alberta were "disappointing in a sense, because we elected only two members."

Mr. Lewis said "it is clear that electorally the CCF has made phenomenal progress during the past two years.

"We now have representation in seven out of the nine provincial legislatures, and the total of CCF members in all seven legislatures is 109," Mr. Lewis reported, adding that "the CCF is the only national party in Canada today, which functions everywhere under its own name and with its own program."

Referring to the present national crisis, Mr. Lewis said:

"At this very moment, our country is faced with an issue which is dividing the people of Canada. Grave dangers to future national unity have arisen and the danger that the reactionary interests will try to exploit the situation for their own ends.

"The CCF is now a tremendous influence in every part of Canada. By maintaining solid unity among our own ranks, by stressing tireless-accused had an opportunity to change, or have cleaned the underwear he wore on the night of the crime. That check had been completed, he said, and the police were satisfied that the underwear was the same.

Guy Patterson, KC, Crown prosecutor, submitted that either the accused or Levielle was responsible for Charlotte Hunter's death. Both were on the scene, and two men were observed by a witness to be quarreling with a woman or women about the time established as that of the murder.

He suggested that Levielle was submissive to his uncle's authority, and that he just "tagged along with suggestions made by the older man after the crime had been committed."

Dealing with the suggestion that the accused was so drunk as to be incapable of forming intent, Mr. Patterson said the evidence disclosed that all were "feeling good", perhaps intoxicated, but none was so drunk as to be incapable. He suggested that the accused had knowledge of his acts when the crime was committed.

SUMS UP

In a brief summing up, Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd dealt with the law and especially as it applied to evidence given by an accomplice. He said there was evidence that would indicate that either the accused or Levielle were accomplices, one for the other. He quoted from the evidence of Merron Wyatt, who was an eye witness to the struggle between a man and a woman, with another man exhorting the man assailant to "give her all you have got."

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

He referred also to the evidence of Dr. J. M. MacGregor, University of Alberta pathologist, who gave the cause of death as suffocation, and that the suffocation could have been caused by a hand being placed over the nose and mouth of the deceased.

The circumstances adduced by the evidence, the judge commented, would indicate that the placing of a hand over the deceased's mouth and nose could only have been to prevent screams that would have attracted assistance. That, he said, would be evidence that the assailant was not in the drunken condition that would deprive him of being able to form intent.

by the fundamental and real issues facing our country, both now and in the future, and by continuing to present to the Canadian people our unifying social and economic program for the building of a co-operative commonwealth, we can overcome the forces and issues dividing our country. This is one immediate and supremely important task."

Today's afternoon and evening sessions of the convention where discussion of finance and organization is taking place are being held behind closed doors.

An early resolution adopted at the opening meeting provides attending CCF candidates at the next federal election who are not bona-fide members of a CCF club with a voice but no vote in the discussions.

Coldwell Says Govt. Awakens Wide Distrust

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said in an address prepared for delivery at the CCF national convention today that the federal government reaps a new "confidence of things as they were" and had awakened widespread distrust.

"This war is part of a world-wide social revolution against the outmoded institutions which have condemned mankind to a cycle of depression and war, and depression again," he continued.

"But nowhere has this been apparent in the nervous approach of the government."

MUST BE "CANADIAN"

Canada should assume her place in world affairs as a full-fledged nation, with a distinctly Canadian flag, anthem and constitution. Newer nations of the British Commonwealth, Australia and South Africa, had their national symbols, and only Canada, a leader among the middle nations, "remains a minor."

The CCF recognized the danger that though the peoples of the United Nations may win the military battles of this war, they might yet lose the war to the great cartels.

"These cartels, private economic super-governments, seek to divide the world into convenient zones for exploitation. Social ownership and public international planning is the only effective check upon this, and only answer to the peril they present."

BASIC CRITICISM

The basic CCF criticism of the government war effort was that it had been a "big-business affair." There had been planning and public enterprise, but the great corporations did not relinquish control. While national planning and enterprise had been hampered by these interests, yet there had been an end to unemployment and great wartime industries were created by public enterprise. The ideas of planning for which the CCF had fought had proved their practical worth in the war and must be the keynotes of post-war planning.

The CCF stand against wartime profiteering had resulted in savings to the people, but wartime profits, after all taxes, had ranged as high as 29 per cent. above the average of the four pre-war years. The CCF convention had laid down that wartime profits should be held to four per cent. of the capital invested.

In spite of the Excess Profits Tax Act, the International Nickel company had made for its absentee shareholders, after taxes, between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 a year, a profit which was "indefensible," Mr. Coldwell said.

CLAIMS NO CONTROL

The desire to public control over the Aluminum Company of Canada although there had been a vast public investment in its plant and facilities. Mr. Coldwell recently laid off 2,400 men, "and, according to reports, denied these men the right of public hearing or protest meetings. The vision of a great Canadian industry is blurred by cartel-fixed prices and profit-taking."

The Canadian people, having invested more than $1,000,000,000 in war plants had a right to insist these assets be kept in operation wherever feasible, and devoted to the raising of living standards.

The low and uncertain and the growing co-operative movement cold-shouldered by the government said Mr. Coldwell.

The CCF believed in banks for the people to finance adequate post-war reconstruction.

RAPS "PLANLESSNESS"

The CCF resolutives condemned the "utter planlessness that lay, and continues to lie, behind the wartime manpower policies of the government . . . haphazard policies have been applied, stripping the farms of needed help, attracted assistance, but no co-ordination between our forces overseas and the manpower availability in Canada."

The CCF stood for a total war effort, including the conscription of industry and wealth as well as manpower.

In Nijmegen Salient

Narrow Strip of Germany Held by Canadian Troops

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN THE NIJMEGEN SALIENT, Holland, Nov. 29.—(CP)—In the regrouping of Allied armies for the current west front offensive, Canadian troops took up positions several weeks ago in this salient at the left end of the Allied line and some units have been holding a narrow strip of Germany itself.

These latter forces have been holding a narrow strip of Germany just across the Netherlands border east of Nijmegen—the first Canadians into Germany in this war.

So far the Canadians have been in a holding role. Their principal task has been defending the approaches to the Nijmegen bridges over the Waal branch of the Rhine river.

REVEALED BY PADRE

(The first disclosure that Canadian troops were on German soil came in a dispatch last Friday from Quebec City. There Rev. Emile Turnel, former padre of Le Regiment de la Chaudiere, infantry regiment of the 3rd Canadian division from Lake Megantic, Que., made public a letter in which the regiment's commanding officer said it was the first Canadian Army unit to cross the German border.

(Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons Monday night that Canadian soldiers now were fighting on German soil in some places.

(The German Transocean agency Tuesday said the Canadians have intensified their artillery duels with the Germans between the lower Rhine and the Waal rivers in The Netherlands.

(The enemy report, which lacked Allied confirmation, suggested this might indicate an Allied move between Nijmegen and Tiel, on the north bank of the Waal Rhine, 22 miles west and slightly south of Arnhem).

The Germans have tried a dozen times to blow up the vital Nijmegen bridges across the Waal Rhine by devious means.

VEIL OF SECRECY

Under a veil of security the Canadians came from the Scheldt area to the Nijmegen salient. They took over from British forces in their particular sectors.

There has been some patrol activity in this sector but aside from this and German shelling aimed at the bridges it has been comparatively quiet. The area is a morass of mud and water. Roads are flooded and living conditions for front line troops are extremely tough.

On patrols the Canadians have taken some German prisoners and the enemy also has captured some Canadians, which revealed the secret that the Canadians were here.

PRIORITY PLACES

(A Reuters News Agency field dispatch reporting that Gen. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander, and Field Marshal Montgomery, 21st Army group commander, were holding conferences somewhere in Holland, said the activities of Lt.-Gen. Dempsey are lined up on the west bank of the Maas River, and of Gen. Crerar, the Canadian commander, are lined up on the south bank and across the Maas. They will have priority places in the conferences agenda of present and future operations."

The Maas flows roughly due north through Holland and then swings to flow approximately due west of the North Sea.)

The last big campaign in which the 1st Canadian Army was engaged was the month-long drive to clear German forces from the Scheldt estuary approaches to Antwerp.

Thieves Strip Visitor's Auto

City police, responding Tuesday to a complaint made by Murray McKinnon of Clover Bar, concerning his auto which he had parked in the Market Square overnight, discovered there was thorough cause for the complaint.

The door lock had been removed from the vehicle, it was found, as was the horn. Looking under the engine hood, officers discovered that thieves had finished the job—by taking out the whole motor.

Investigations are being made.

German Towns Smoking Shambles

Knock-Down, Drag-Out Fight Waged by Yanks Near Aachen

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE AMERICAN 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The Americans are having a knock-down and drag-out fight inside Germany east of Aachen along the four-lane super-highway leading to Cologne.

The devastation resembles what the Canadians saw last summer at Caen in Normandy and this autumn along the Scheldе river in the Low countries.

German towns in the path of the American advance are a smoking shambles. Fighting is ferocious and gains limited but this army which made its D-Day assault with the British 2nd Army is bashing its way through mud and ruin.

LITERALLY WIPED OUT

Aachen, first German city captured, was literally wiped out by the Americans who are doing the same to towns which they are slamming through in this struggle toward the Rhine.

It is an infantry fight here as it was on the Scheldе. Tanks cannot operate and mud-covered infantrymen carry the burden of the attack.

There are thousands of experienced troops here but some of the best gains have been made by a new outfit—the 104th infantry division composed of draftees from all over the United States and commanded by Maj.-Gen. Terry Allen. It was he who led the 1st American Division in Sicily when it fought on the left flank of the Canadian 1st Division.

On this front you don't get the impression that there is going to be a spectacular break-through to the Rhine. Ahead of the 1st Army is the Roer river. There is the big town of Duren and a mixed mass of Germans — crack troops and home guard outfits—is fighting like maniacs.

SEE NO EARLY END

You don't find infantrymen here talking all about the war being over soon. And it's the same with fighting British and Canadian troops. Any optimism about an early wind-up comes from places down the line. The fighting troops are reconciled to a winter campaign.

Military government following up the army has a firm grip on the civilian situation in smashed communities.

There is absolutely no fraternizing between soldiers and civilians. Glum German men and women don't even look at you as you pass. They seemed stunned that Allied forces are on German soil.

Window Smashed When Girl Calls Troops "Zombies"

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 29—(CP)—Military authorities were reported yesterday to be investigating an incident that occurred on the nearby Gannon road Monday night, when one of a group of troops on a route march broke ranks and smashed a window in the home of a girl who had yelled "zombies" at the passing troops.

The soldier broke the glass with his rifle to scare the girl, it was said. Military officers and Police Chief Louis A. Clark questioned the 17-year-old girl, who told authorities she did not know what the name meant and had no special reason for calling to the soldiers.

The group of soldiers was composed both of general service and home defence troops.

More in Britain Pay Income Tax

LONDON, Nov. 29—(CP)—The number of income tax payers in Britain has increased from 4,000,000 to 13,000,000 since the war began, and the average worker who makes between £500 and £1,000 ($2,250 and $4,500) a year now pays 28 per cent of his income directly to the government, the British wartime white paper disclosed yesterday.

The following table gives the pre-war and present percentages paid as income tax by salary groups:

	Pre-war	Present
Less than £250	0.2	3.0
£250-£500	2.9	14.6
£500-£1,000	11.1	28.0

Report Wheat Pool Membership Rises

CALGARY, Nov. 29.—(CP)—An increase in the Alberta Wheat Pool membership of 1,895 during the last year and of 10,080 since 1939 was reported to the annual meeting of delegates here yesterday. The board of directors added that total membership now stood at 59,698 farmers. The annual meeting, which has no deadline but will continue until all business is finished, opened yesterday with the election of John Fowlie, Bindloss, Homer Montgomery, Nanton, J. M. Wheatley, chancellor, and Paul Redd, Raymond, as convention chairmen.

Premier E. C. Manning addressed the convention briefly. He said the Alberta government welcomed the best advice, judgment and experience the co-operative associations could offer agriculture.

He said it was a specialized occupation. No longer could it be said that a man who failed at everything else could make a success of farming.

It was announced that total grain handled by the pool elevators during the 1943-44 crop year was 41,528,972 bushels.

THE DR. CHASE CAMPAIGN FOR NATIONAL HEALTH

What is the Secret of Family Health

One family is always healthy. In the next family there seem to always be someone sick.

Why?

Is used to be customary to blame this condition on heredity.

But recent investigations show that far more depends on living and eating habits.

The underlying cause of low vitality is often traceable to a lack of vitamin B1 and essential minerals derived from the food consumed.

As a result whole families may be found to be subject to a low condition of health which leaves them prey to serious and annoying ailments.

More and more intelligent thinking people are learning to depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a "pick-me-up" to help them out of a low condition of vitality.

It is usually the mother in the home who is largely responsible for the family health and most mothers know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it can do to help restore richness to the blood and vigor to the nervous system.

In most families, these days, there are excuses of work, worry and anxiety which overtax the nerves and cause headaches, irritability, loss of sleep and indigestion.

But these troubles do not need to get you down if you let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you.

Ask for the new economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and set it on the dining table along with the salt and pepper shakers so everyone who needs it may get his after meal supply of vitamin B1 and food minerals.

It Didn't Pay

An official statement shows that in five years one in every three homes in England was destroyed or damaged by enemy bombs, and that 136,116 civilians were killed or injured. Of these, 57,298 were killed. These figures apparently cover the war period up to the early part of last September.

Total British casualties, civilian and military, throughout the world are given as 733,030, of which 563,112 were in the armed forces. This covers military, naval and air operations all the way from Hong Kong to Norway, including Africa, Italy and France. There cannot on this showing have been very many casualties among soldiers, sailors and airmen in England as the result of enemy bombs.

A hazy but useful calculation can be based on this statement as to the effectiveness of indiscriminate bombing. Obviously the civilian property damage in England has been tremendous. In addition to the houses destroyed, hospitals, churches, hotels, schools and other civilian public buildings have been demolished or damaged. The replacement cost must run to an appalling sum.

But the casualties are not at all in keeping. Among civilians a total of 57,000 killed and around 80,000 injured is almost unbelievably small compared with the wreckage of buildings. And the military casualties, as shown, cannot have been at all what the enemy hoped for. That munitions plants and other military establishments were not suffered to certainly not indicated by the figures of sustained production of "tools" of all kinds.

Wars are not won by blowing dwelling houses to pieces, nor by killing and wounding women and children and men unfit for military duty. These seem to have been mainly the results of the promiscuous bombing in which the luftwaffe engaged all-out for a full year, and of the robots which have been fired from continental points and from airplanes on the hit-and-miss principle.

There is nothing in the figures to show that indiscriminate bombing, pays, directly or indirectly, in weakening an enemy country. Apparently the Allied air authorities were well-advised on military grounds, as they certainly were on moral grounds, in spending their bombs on selected targets of known actual military use to the enemy.

A Two-Way Advantage

Some of the buildings which the United States army no longer needs at Dawson Creek are to be brought to Edmonton and converted into civilian dwellings. The buildings apparently are of the knock-down type, and can be taken down and reconstructed where needed quickly. They may not provide dwelling quarters such as fastidious people would prefer, but in the present situation any quarters which are comfortable are likely to be welcomed.

The advantage in the arrangement is that housing accommodation can be increased without the use of new materials, which are still scarce, and with a minimum use of man-time, which is also scarce. As more accommodation is urgently needed, the decision to bring these buildings to the city and put them to use is doubly important. Living space will be provided where it is required, and the hutments will be saved from the fate which usually befalls unoccupied buildings.

Recreation Commission

The Edmonton city council does well to approve the establishment of a recreation commission in this city.

The commission will be a voluntary advisory body to the city council in relation to all matters affecting the use and control of all recreational grounds owned by the city.

Its first function will be to promote the extensive use of these grounds in the most valuable and equitable way.

The establishment of such a commission is useful in view of the fact that the problem of using recreational areas intelligently is just as important as the problem of securing such recreational areas.

There is no use having a playground of any sort unless enough young people are using it to healthfully develop their bodies.

The commission, therefore, will have a vital task ahead of it and its setting up is a step in the right direction.

Acquire Property First

Negotiations which, it is reported, are being carried on with a syndicate desirous of building a first class hotel in Edmonton need not complicate the matter of beautifying the Macdonald hotel area, as some aldermen appear to think.

Whether the beautification program is to be completed in conjunction with the Canadian National Railways, with an unnamed hotel syndicate, or by the city alone, the first step is to acquire the requisite property. And certainly no outside agency will even consider any joint plan until this property is legally and actually available.

To clean up the slum conditions in this area and to create a park that will adequately set off the architectural beauty of the Macdonald hotel and the curves of the river bank, it will be necessary to secure, in addition to property already belonging to the city, the one hundred feet of land on the southeast corner of 100 street and Jasper avenue.

This should be purchased now before property values increase. For surely to argue that there is no danger of any increase is to admit to a sad lack of faith in the growth of Edmonton.

No one questions the urgent need for this plan of beautification. No one is opposed to the creation of parks and breathing spaces throughout the centre of the city.

It is clear, however, that actual work on any such project could not start until manpower and materials are available and until the work would not interfere with housing, for instance.

But there is no reason why the necessary property should not be acquired now. Indeed there is every reason why it should be acquired since, if the project is to be undertaken jointly, no partner in the plan is going to move a step until a clear title to this property is plainly in sight.

The Allies staged their first 1,000-plane raid in the Philippines when Jap establishments at Manila and along 250 miles of the Luzon coast were bombed. Besides shore damage, 20 enemy ships were sunk, nine more wrecked, 19 damaged, and 119 enemy planes destroyed or crippled. The Tokyo broadcaster who said Jap airmen had established air supremacy over Leyte may have to explain to his wondering listeners.

By capturing Weisweiler, forces of the American First Army cut the great military highway running west from Cologne to Aachen and connecting there with roads through the Siegfried-Maginot defence system. The highway comprises six traffic lanes. That bespeaks the importance it was given in planning the West Wall, and suggests that the time and money spent in creating this great artery for moving reinforcements and supplies into the defence area. Cutting such, a supply-line may prove to have been a major blow to the whole enemy position west and south of Cologne.

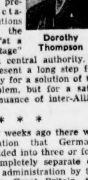
Military Control Of Germany When the War Is Over

No Soft Peace for the Nazis Is Contemplated Now

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

On Friday Frederick Kuh reported from London that the American, British and Russian governments have signed an agreement setting up the machinery for military control of Germany, following the capitulation of the Reich. The two most important things in the agreement are that, first, it provides for a joint military authority for all occupation zones, and, second, that "contrary to previous expectations," intentions look toward the emergence "at a fairly early stage" of a German central authority.



Dorothy Thompson

These represent a long step forward, not only for a solution of the German problem, but for a satisfactory continuance of inter-Allied relations.

Only a few weeks ago there was every indication that Germany would be divided into three or four zones, for completely separate occupation and administration by the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union, and probably France. Each zone was to be under a high commissioner, responsible only to his own government. Readers of this column may recall the alarmed criticism which we levelled at this arrangement. It amounted to dismemberment, and was bound to lead to a clash in policies, with the possibility of one ally being played off against another by German groups.

If we are talking of a world organization for security and peace, it is obvious that its first function should be to take over the policing of Germany as a combined operation, excluding the possibility of three or four conflicting policies.

It would seem obvious that it has been difficult to agree on a common policy, otherwise it would have been reached long ago. Many trial balloons were sent up from various sources, among them the ill-conceived plan of Secretary Morgenthau plan, which seems to have been the turning point toward greater reason.

The President's foreign policy speech indicated the outlines of the policy which seems to have prevailed: complete and permanent disarmament; punishment of those "directly responsible for this agony of mankind"; no hint of preparations in the suggestion that the "Germans will have to earn their way back" to the fellowship of law-abiding and peace-loving nations," and the offer of a hope that this might eventually be possible, combined with the absolute repudiation of any racial theory about the German people.

Since the President's speech there have been numerous other straws to show which way the wind was blowing. The most authoritative was contained in the speech of Stalin on November 6th, the eve of the 27th anniversary of the Russian revolution, and the eve of our elections. It was the most positive statement yet made by Stalin for the continuous and loyal collaboration between the Allies, and Stalin explained that the greatest explanation of German failure is their race theory, which made it impossible for them to win over the nations they defeated, and that the Soviet Union does not intend to repeat this Nazi mistake. It was in this speech that Stalin quoted the Russian proverb, "We do not hate the wolf because his fur is gray but because he eats our sheep."

This was taken up by Ilya Ehrenburg, who is generally both the most brilliant and the most vitriolic press campaign against the Germans, and in what he now writes a new line is to be observed, which specifically rejects vengeance, and denounces the idea of punishing the children for the sins of their fathers.

A further premonition of what is now revealed was given a week ago Sunday in an article by Eduard Benes which appeared in the New York Sunday Times. In it Dr. Benes stated that two or three years after occupation there would be a liberal German government. He warned against too much confidence, but accepted it as a necessity. He also stressed that he is not, under all conditions anti-German per se—a noteworthy statement from Czech statesman, at the climax of this war.

Yet this development has been foreseen by this column, at times when it was unpopular to advocate it. Yet it seemed certain that as the Allies approached the time when they would have to put plans into operation, many of those advanced would prove impossible, and at least those men charged to carry them out would realize the Nihilism bound to result from them.

There is not going to be a "soft" peace for Germany—and that, as this column has pointed out many times, has never been the issue. The issue has been a peace that would hold the Allies together and offer at least the hope of a new, peaceful, co-operative Germany, as early as we can get it. If this should prove impossible, it would be extremely unfortunate not only for Germany, but for the world. For eventually we must bring the whole world to a common understanding of what is and is not permissible on this ever-shrinking globe.

On to now, however, we have grossly neglected the main job which this might be brought about. These must be explored—but that is another column.

Leaves

Editor, Bulletin: In one of your issues I read a statement made by General Vokes in which he says Canadians overseas are to be given leave to come home. He spoke as if our women are like a bunch of cattle and that leave is only granted, not because it is well earned, but for breeding purposes only.

How any man who is a father or husband can make such a remark is beyond me.

I with hundreds of others left here in 1939 leaving the ones we loved so dearly behind with little ones from one week to five and ten years old. Many a heart ached for the ones who were left expectant. I saw the anxiety and bitter tears of those fellows waiting for news of the arrival of this child that some of them never will see. On my return I have seen women whose husbands had just gone away and they in grief were carried to the insane asylum for their turn to bear the pain alone.

I am sure that any man who is fortunate enough to get that leave will have a much fairer mind than to come home and leave his wife in misery for the next year.

If he would suggest that 30 days would be again given at the birth of their children he would not sound quite so much like an animal.

I have not taken a Gallup Poll on my suggestion but those whom I have talked to seem to think that his remark is quite uncalled for.

Coalition

Editor, Bulletin: There is a great spirit of doubt and fear in the post-war prospects in Canada. It is being fostered by some for political gain and is partly due to pre-war poverty. Can we honestly say we only think in terms of misery because they have suffered much. Others believe misery is the natural order and all else would injure the rake-off and righteousness would vanish.

If our great men on the battle front had the same views, Hitler would be in Edmonton now. That should silence the croix de feu Jeremiahs. Canada has proved mightily in war, can be greater in peace. We have the men and resources second to none in courage and genius in war. We have a people ready to build a real peace.

There is no reason why we cannot carry into the peace the same determination and heroism we have applied to winning the war against Nazi bestiality. Our armed forces, our factories and our farms prove we have every resource in men and material. We have built the finest of arms, planes, ships, tanks. We found tens of billions of dollars for the destruction of our enemies, so that Canada shall be free.

We can win the peace with no question of "maybe". We can find billions for construction. We can provide jobs, homes, security. The people and the resources are here. It is a question of government, for and by the people that can assure prosperity. We can elect this government.

As in the United States, where the progressive Republican Americans rallied behind the program of President Roosevelt for victory and prosperity, so in Canada it is going to take the fullest co-operation of all forward-thinking Canadians to go forward to an age of plenty. The obstacles are narrow partisan hates. Tory attempts to bluff their way into office with false promises as New has done in Ontario, this campaign of under-mining fear that would rob people of confidence in themselves.

A democratic coalition such as elected President Roosevelt (a victory almost as brilliant as Stalingrad) can be achieved in Canada by co-operation between the Progressives in the Liberal party, the CCF, Social Credit and Labor Progressive party. By co-operation and unity of purpose, this coalition can put a program for prosperity into operation in Canada. It can be done. The responsibility for failure will be that of those of those who claim partisan ends and would betray our people. The majority of our people are for progress and democracy. Those who stand in the way must be discarded.

Sloppy Democracy

Editor, Bulletin: The Germans have put the fear of the enemies in all the people of Canada—not a part of our population only.

There is no valid reason why some of us only should go to fight them on their own ground while others equally fit should stay at home.

The voluntary system for active service denotes a very sloppy kind of democracy. Premier King's praise of it constitutes a slur on the drafted armies. Great Britain, the United States and Russia, which are fighting for the survival of civilization.

It is also a sloppy democracy which allows the isolationists in Quebec—less than one-third of our population—to control the policy of our government in the present urgent need for reinforcements.

Include All

Editor Bulletin: The proposal to give all young men compulsory military training after the war is a good one, provided it does not apply only to English-speaking Canadians.

As long as the present regime in the saddle in Ottawa it is quite easy to foresee that military training as well as any other form of national obligation will carry mental reservations so far as Quebec is concerned.

Artillery Equipment

Editor Bulletin: Over the radio I heard a complaint from an artillery officer that the new equipment of his unit was taken away in England before leaving for Italy and replaced later by old and badly-worn equipment from British and Polish units.

Well, what about it? Frequently in the last war artillery batteries moving to a new area had to leave their equipment behind and take over that of the batteries they relieved.

Sometimes we got considerably the worst of the deal—sometimes we gained; and, very naturally, such exchanges were not popular though made advisable by the "exigences of the service."

But I never heard of any artillery officer making his disapproval in public, and the present complaint sounds childish and calculated to give rise to ill-feeling.

Editor, Bulletin: Is it not time that the French Canadians should realize that outside the province of Quebec they are no longer under the conditions which they were allowed to keep when Quebec was taken over by England?

They must have English-speaking teachers, judges, lawyers and other public servants in their schools, law courts, etc., like all other races under the Dominion Government.

This is a country free to every race and creed, but not for segregation of races. We do not want racial factions, nor religious factions in a country of many nationalities.

Segregation of nationalities is wrong and dangerous. The USA does not have it, why should we Canadians?

Democratic

Editor, Bulletin: Regards recent murders of the drafted British reference, or, zombie troops of B.C., in this respect there are two items I wish to deal with.

1. When considering the "zombie problem" with one's head, in place of one's blood, two main angles present themselves: From the one, he adds up to—the most despicable human being; from the other, I find nothing but admiration for him, and I consider myself a better and more truly patriotic citizen than many who condemn him.

2. The B.C. zombie has called for conscription of "wealth and industry"—and just "man power"—I consider this the most democratic demand that he can be uttered and I feel that all similar minded individuals should not fail to let it be known that we support the zombies in their demand—if such conscription is not put into effect, this war (as all previous wars) will be fought in vain.

Any war financed by an interest bearing debt, is a distinct loss to the masses of a so called "democracy" no matter how successful their armed forces are in conquering the military conflict.

Delinquents

Editor, Bulletin: There are well defined reasons for boys and girls going wrong these days. The first is no home life—work is plentiful at good pay owing to the scarcity of labor. Since the war employment was at a premium, and parents, especially the mothers, were no longer looking after the family.

Today there is no time for home life; the parents feel that they must get all that they can while the getting is good for, after the war they expect another period of dull work and no pay. Added to this is the higher taxation which is bound to continue to pay for the bonds and the interest on the bonds—money made available for the cost of the war.

Having no home to go to the boys and girls have no other alternative than to roam the streets or, as was shown clearly by an article in The Bulletin where two 15-year-old and two 16-year-old boys and girls broke into a house to do what they could go, as they thought, at any time—or take the case of a 15-year-old girl having forged the $600 of her parents' money. These are only two of the several cases coming to the notice of the public through the press.

In most cases they work in gangs under a gang leader and when this happens parents lose all control, as in the case of the above. They land in juvenile courts from where they start all over again, bolder than ever.

At present we seem to have no way of dealing with the problem, no way of tapping this energy of youth going the wrong way. Why not have compulsory work for them, like, taking him or her away from the incentive to do wrong. Placing him or her under someone's care prepared by the authorities, staffed by men and women who are sympathetic to this misdirected energy of the youth which is largely the fault of the home and the homes that be.

Overseas Fighting

Editor Bulletin: I would like to reply to Mr. H. A. Traxler's letter of Nov. 18 issue.

Apparently he has forgotten that Norway, Denmark, Belgium, and many other countries "looked after their own country" (quote from his letter), and we all know the result. It did not save their countries from invasion by an aggressor nation—Germany—but would have been no worse off if they had declared war on Germany, and they might have helped the situation by taking a firm stand at that time.

Might I point out that it is better for Canadians to fight the enemy overseas, than have our country torn to pieces, our cities destroyed and our women folk treated the playthings by the Nazis and Japs.

If no one from any country had gone to fight for Britain and its overseas, and he knew (like all honest thinking men know) that conscription is the only fair way to conduct a war, no honest individual can deny that any other method is unfair. One man's life is as precious as another irrespective of his rank or occupation. No man should be asked to offer his life for those who are apparently afraid to do their duty. No government should ask its best citizens to volunteer while others stay home, an dtake advantage of the war to make more money than they ever did before.

The Break With Quebec...

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The historic watershed of Canadian politics has been passed. The currents of our politics now divide and flow in new directions which no man can calculate. Wherever they flow, the day of November 23, 1944, becomes a towering landmark on our history.

The military fact emerging from the crisis in Ottawa is the decision to apply total conscription. The political fact is that Mr. King, the life-long anti-conscriptionist, has applied it and must now face the consequences of the largest decision of his life.

Conscription became inevitable as a result of two things: first, political pressures in the English-speaking provinces expressed finally by the resignation of half a dozen Cabinet ministers to secure conscription or resign; second, by the facts of our military situation as presented by Colonel Ralston opposed by General McNaughton and now materially modified. It was to these two things that Mr. King bowed. He could not longer deny the facts and the failure of General McNaughton's voluntary recruiting campaign and he could not resist the will of the Canadian majority.

But better than anyone in Canada, Mr. King knew the political cost of a decision. He knew that h was abandoning the chief purpose of his life, to remain without interruption the undisputed leader of both Canadian races. To break with Quebec was with him at once a political catastrophe and a personal tragedy. In his heart he had to choose between smashing the Liberal party in English-speaking Canada and maintaining his deep devotion to the tradition of his spiritual father and mentor, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Few thought he would make the break with his political record and with his inward life. He has made that break as one of the prime decisions of our whole history as a nation.

The military decision, despite the confusing speech of General McNaughton, is clear enough. The draftees are going overseas without further debate in Parliament. The government has accepted total conscription and will apply it as it is needed to send reinforcements overseas in the required units and drafts. But far from clear are the political results of the decision.

In a word, how well will Quebec accept the majority rule on an issue which has somehow become racial, religious and mystical throughout French Canada? In a few days we shall know. Meanwhile it is clear that we face another schism between our two races comparable to that of 1917 and that the healing of it will take a long time at best. But it is also clear that he process of healing can proceed more rapidly under Mr. King than under any conceivable successor. Since the last war Quebec has trusted Mr. King as its surest protector. Quebec has been shown by the grim march of events in the last few weeks that Mr. King went to the limit in trying to save it from conscription, and that he yielded only when all the facts were against him and when failure to yield would have broken his government and established in his place a conscriptionist Prime Minister and probably an anti-Quebec government.

It is too much to hope that this knowledge will prevent the Quebec Liberals going into isolation for the present. Undoubtedly Mr. King hopes that with a clear record of opposition to conscription, Quebec will return eventually to him. But whether it will return before the next election is a very different question. We may well see Quebec rally behind an English and anti-English group of some sort, whipped into shape by such racialists as Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Raymond. Yet Mr. King can still expect that no such group, nor the sitting Quebec Liberal members under his banner, will finally prefer any other party to the Liberal party. In a crisis in anything but conscription Quebec would probably see the present King government through and resolutely support it after the election if it lacked an overall majority.

Nevertheless we face difficult times in Parliament early in 1945 with the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF both building for the next election and eager to discredit the government and Mr. Ilsley's financialism, laboring under a sense of betrayal and not knowing where to turn. It is too late for Mr. King to regret this now. He has turned the corner and he must now look for his chief support and hope of re-election to English-speaking Canada. Whether his recent manoeuvres have damaged him there we shall not know until the next election is over.

These are all political considerations. Much more important in the end is the fact that English-speaking Canada has asserted itself. The majority of the nation has refused to be halted in this war program by the minority, come what may. Whatever happens in politics this decision remains by long odds the most important the Canadian people have reached among themselves in the present generation. It will color our politics and our national life for years beyond prophecy for a generation to come.

Copies of King's Speech Are Sent To School Heads

Senate Postpones Army Discussion

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The Senate last night postponed discussion of the reinforcement situation until tonight to enable members of the Upper House to attend the secret session of the Commons.

Last Thursday the Senate adjourned until last night so that members might attend the Commons session at which Defence Minister McNaughton made a statement and submitted himself to questioning.

Senator J. H. King, government Senate leader, said at last night's brief session that it was not customary to submit a motion of confidence in the Senate, but it was hoped that some formula could be worked out to enable him to make a statement and other members to take part in a discussion on reinforcements.

In the Commons Prime Minister Mackenzie King placed on the order paper a motion calling for the support of parliament to the government in its war effort. He said he regarded the motion as one of confidence.

ed the resignation of Col. J. L. Ralston as defence minister and the appointment of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton as his successor, are being distributed to school principals and members of their staff, it was learned last night.

The copies, in booklet form, were mailed to the principals from the Wartime Information Board at Ottawa.

The East York school board member said: "There were no instructions with the parcels."

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

IT SEEMS fairly obvious that Bill Ruff, usually able to come through in a pinch, has pitched another strike. In any event, the juniors can continue their workouts, despite the fact Arena ice may not be obtainable for a few days, possibly not for the rest of the week.

The 119 Street rink is all set to go, and so, starting tonight, junior pucksters will be back in their home of the past two seasons until the all-clear sign is hung out again at the Arena. Playing in the open air in sub-zero weather—it's several subs right at the moment—is not a pleasant prospect, but the 119 Street edifice is the best available, and that's that.

Bill probably would claim having little or nothing to do with it, but past performances indicate otherwise. He is always regarded as the person mainly responsible for putting such things across, and right on schedule too.

It is reported that an entirely new sheet is in the making at the Arena, a fresh start being deemed advisable when the ice failed to stand up uniformly. The surface was quite okay when practices began Monday, but bad spots developed later and the situation grew steadily worse during workouts last night.

HERE AND THERE . . .

NOW it's Coach Joe Brown, of the South Siders. Joe was mentor for the Alberta champion Canadians last season, but Tuesday night he appeared in his new role. And Paul Martell is handling another S.S. team—this time the juveniles. Paul got his midgets into the city final a year ago.

Nyles (Christy) Christenson, who played right wing for the '43-44 edition of Canadians, was out with South Side last night. Several months ago he joined the RCAF, but in view of imminent discharge may get in some junior hockey again this winter. Incidentally, a brother, John, who both in looks and action bears a striking resemblance to "Christy" was out too.

Don Robertson, centre, who made life miserable for opposing juvenile goalies last winter and was well up in the scoring averages, looks better than ever. Walter Elgert, smart defence man is missing this season, but Dave Ellis was on deck.

Canadians drew the late practice assignment last night and the entire squad turned out with Coach Clarence Moher in charge. Ice conditions made playing almost impossible. They'll be out at 119 street tonight starting at 7 o'clock. Frank Arnold, secretary of Maple Leafs, stated last night their juniors would work out at 119th tomorrow night.

Roy Lalonde, goalie out with a RAC juniors is a cousin of the famous "Newsy" who has performed many times on Arena ice here as a member of the Saskatoon Sheiks in the old Western Canada pro loop. Roy, from Montreal is employed here now. He played one game for No. 4 PTS here last winter.

Navy Minimizes Army Threat By Hanging Onto Football

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Andy Gustafson brings up a pertinent point in connection with the football Battle of the Century in Baltimore, Dec. 2.

"Army has demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that it can score, all right," says line coach Gustafson, "but how many opportunities will it have against a Navy team that hangs onto the ball all day?" The old Pittsburgh fullback recalls the 1941 game, when the Midshipmen were in possession for 13½ minutes of the final period.

Navy burns up time and the other side by moving four, six and eight yards at a crack, piles up first downs. The Middies go the hard way.

Army cannot afford to muff opportunities for the long-gainers that have made the athletes from the Hudson Highlands a point-a-minute outfit. The Cadets will have none too many.

Through the herculean efforts of Babe Dimancheff, Purdue gained 177 yards on terra firma, the bulk of it through Navy's right side, but that doesn't mean the flank of the Annapolis forward wall has collapsed.

The Boilermaker total exceeded the combined ground mileage of the Future Admirals' seven previous opponents, four of whom wound up with a minus figure.

Navy's line will be the altitude of Pike's higher for Army than it was for Cecil Isbell's boys.

If Army elects to leave Navy's left side strictly alone its fleet and hard-hitting blockers and backs will find no welcoming committee on the other flank. Capt. Ben Chase, Gail Gilliam and Johnny Martin and their replacements and backer-ups are proven.

The principal reason rivals treat Navy's left side with such wholesome respect is the presence at tackle there of 5-foot-11, 215-pound Don Whitmire, the All-America from Alabama in his second year at Crabtown. Whitmire is a pfflbox on defense and his cross-blocking on offense massacres guards. It was this seasoned young man from Decatur, Ala., who put Notre Dame on the bum.

"Every time I look at a picture I see Whitmire," asserts Herman Hickman, the Army line coach who is built along the same general lines and was all tackle himself at Tennessee. Lt.-Col. Earl Blaik has frightful dreams centering around Whitmire.

You can speak of little Hal Hamberg all you please, but it is the Bama teammates, Whitmire and Bob Jenkins, that Army fears most.

"Jenkins is the most punishing back in the country," moans Coach Red Blaik.

Navy also has among others a blocking back named Dick Duden.

Between a would-be tackler and Dick Duden is no place to be caught.

Tallies Two Sets Up One For Wings

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bill (Flash) Hollett, who dotes on humbling his recent Boston Bruins team-mates, registered two unassisted goals against them while pacing Detroit Red Wings to a 6-3 National Hockey League victory Tuesday night before a crowd of 11,000 at the Boston Garden.

Hollett, born in the Bruins' side since they traded him last season, set up the first Detroit goal, made by Ted Lindsay, during the third minute of play, and Jud McAtee made it 2-0 before the game was nine minutes old.

The Bruins did all of their scoring during the second session and Bill Jennings, who was with the Red Wings a year ago, scored the first of two of them, the other being supplied by Pat Egan.

Between the Jennings' counters, the second of which was made while Count Grosso was serving the only Detroit penalty, Hollett notched his first tally.

Aided by the Bruneteau brothers, Mud and Ed, Joe Carveth scored while Egan was taking the second of three turns in the penalty box. Egan bounced out, however, to convert the second of Bill Cowley's two assists and the Bruins started the finale trailing by a 4-3 margin.

The Bruins put on a furious attack during all of the third session but they left enough wide open spots in their defence for Grosso and Hollett to pile up the Detroit score.

Cowley's pair of assists boosted his league-leading point total to 24. The Red Wings used Normie Smith, their spare goalie, in the absence of Connie Dion, who is ill.

Cowley Four Points Ahead Of Blake and Clint Smith

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Boston's apparently ageless Bill Cowley is all alone at the top of the National Hockey League scoring race, a position that is by no means strange to the man who has won scoring honors twice in the past and come close on several other occasions.

Last night the great play-making centre picked up two assists to boost his total to 24, four more than Toe Blake of Canadiens and Clint Smith of Chicago Black Hawks who are tied for the runnerup spot.

Cowley took over the top spot of the assist column from Toronto's Gus Bodnar, his two lest night bringing his total to 16, one more than the Leaf forward Bodnar is tied with Detroit Red Wings' Syd Howe with 19.

Newhouser Edges Out Trout For American Player Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. — (AP) — Harold (Hal) Newhouser, Detroit pitcher, Tuesday was named the most valuable player in the American League in 1944 by a four-vote margin over team-mate Paul (Dizzy) Trout in the annual balloting of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

The 23-year-old native of Detroit, who won 29 games for the Tigers received 236 votes to 232 for Trout. Trout, however, picked up 10 first place ballots to seven for Newhouser, who pulled ahead by polling 10 seconds and six thirds.

Vernon (Junior) Stephens of the pennant-winning St. Louis Browns, whose 105 runs batted in led the circuit, finished third with 193 points. The slugging shortstop was named on four first-place ballots. Far back were second baseman George Stirnweiss, sparkplug of the New York Yankees, loop leader in runs, hits and stolen bases, with 129 points, one more than Dick Wakefield who led the Tiger offence with a .359 batting mark in 78 games, after joining the club July 13.

Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, whose .327 mark made him the first manager to lead the junior circuit in batting, placed sixth with 84, followed by Bobby Doerr, Boston's .325 hitter, 75; Stan Spence of Washington, 56, and Nelson Potter, the Browns' 19-game winner, 52. The Red Sox' Bob Johnson rounded out the first 10 with 51 points.

Newhouser became the first southpaw and the third hurler to qualify for the most valuable designation in the long history of the American League award. Washington's Walter Johnson (twice) and Spurgeon Chandler of the 1943 Yankees were the others so honored.

Hurricane Hal led both majors in strikeouts with 187, and his 312 innings, 25 complete games and six shutouts ranked second only to Trout's totals. He beat the Yankees six times, the first time that has been done since Johnson defeated the New Yorkers seven times in 1912.

Most Valuable

Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tigers 29-game winning lefthander Tuesday became the first southpaw to be selected the most valuable player in the American League by the Baseball Writers' Association. He just managed to nose out team-mate "Dizzy" Trout by four votes for the 1944 award.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—Thomas A. Teacher, former coach of St. Catharines Athletics' senior lacross team and father of three-playing members of this city's squad that won the Canadian championship this year after a hard-fought series with New Westminster Salmonbellies, Tuesday night was elected president of the St. Catharines Athletics' Lacrosse Association. He succeeds William J. Taylor, who retired because of pressure of business.

The three Teather members of Athletics now are in the armed forces Tom (tank), with the Royal Canadian Artillery; George, with the RCAF overseas, and Jack, with the Royal Canadian Engineers.

Joe Krol Voted Most Valuable

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP)—Joe Krol, Hamilton Wildcats quarterback, Tuesday was announced by Ontario Rugby Football Union president Frank E. Leonard as winner of the Imperial Oil trophy for 1944. The trophy, awarded to the union's most valuable player who combines sportsmanship with his performance, is decided by the vote of players on all league teams.

The 1945 winner was Bob Cosgrove of Toronto RCAF Hurricanes.

Lou Alter Takes 10-Round Decision

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Lou Alter, 121¼, scored a 10-round decision over Florian Bibeau, 121¼, both of Montreal, in a featherweight boxing bout last night. The fight was the main event on a card which saw Al Evans, 150, Montreal, knock out Kid Tunero, 159, of Cuba in the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Quebec Senior

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Jimmy O'Connor, who made his debut in senior hockey company here Tuesday night as a member of Montreal Royals, dealt Hull Volants a double dose of grief by scoring four goals to pace Royals to a 9-2 decision over Volants in a Quebec Senior Hockey League fixture before a paid crowd of 2,721.

South Side Juniors Hold First Workout

TWENTY-ONE players were on hand at the Arena Tuesday night for the initial workout of the South Side Athletic Association's entry in the Edmonton Junior Hockey League, Maple Leafs, Canadians and EAC's are the other three teams in the circuit.

Joe Brown, newly appointed coach, was in charge. The juveniles, who are being handled by Paul Martell, practiced with the juniors. Manager Tom Green also assisted.

The South Side junior squad will be composed almost entirely of boys still eligible for juvenile hockey and the bulk of the team which represented the organization in the city juvenile loop a year ago are available.

Colin Kilburn, goalie for S.S. Midgets, who reached the final round for their division a year ago, was in one of the nets last night, while George Sanis was between the posts at the opposite end.

Dave Ellis, who, along with Walter Elgert, formed the South Side juvenile defence last season was out but Elgert, also a very promising rearguard, is not in the city this winter.

Don Robertson, star sniper and one of the best in juvenile ranks here during the 1943-44 season was on hand and shouldn't have any difficulty in making a junior berth anywhere. He plays centre ice.

List of others attending the first practice, included Bill Henkleman, Hughie MacDonald, John Gosling, Frankie Lappin, George Ego, Bob Cooper, Rus Stogren, Bob Hall, Bill Whiting, Tom Nutiall, John Christenson, Nyles Christenson, Fries, Rigney, Bill Stollery, Jack Morie, Jack Davies and Ron Goodman.

A further practice has been called for the Arena on Friday from 7 to 8 p.m., but a change may be necessary. Workouts arranged by other teams for both tonight and Thursday have been switched to 119 street rink, due to ice difficulties at the arena.

U.S. Navy Loses Outstanding Back

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bobby Jenkins, navy's leading ground-gaining back, was declared "out" of the army football game Tuesday because of an infected foot and hopes of the middies to tack away their sixth straight victory over the cadets Saturday took a severe setback.

Cmdr. Oscar E. Hagberg, Navy head coach, announced that the former Alhama star, a big gun in the sailors' triumph over Army last year, would be out of the game.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—It is with extreme reluctance that we—an old sailor—answer football's $64 question today by predicting that Army will beat Navy at Baltimore Saturday, about 34 to 20.

Although our sympathies naturally are with Cmdr. Oscer Hagberg's Middies, the "form" indicates that they are due for a trimming in this great grid classic, after five straight victories for the cadets.

Approaching this contest, it is ultra-important to remember that the team Lt. V. Earl Blaik has turned out at West Point this year is a vast improvement over the 1943 Army outfit which played Navy to a stand still in the first half in the virtual privacy of Michie Stadium, then wilted and lost 13 to 0.

ARMY SHOUDN'T WILT

DESPITE the hammering of Navy's magnificent line, the cadets should not wilt in the later going because the two elevens are of almost equal strength. Army's overwhelming manpower has been a major factor in its string of eight impressive victories this season, as it rolled up the staggering total of 461 points to the opposition's 38.

Remember what happened to Duke, which led the cadets at the half. Duke crumbled in the second half and lost, 27 to 7.

We emphasize that Army's manpower is equal, at least, to that of Navy—and probably superior. This is important, because you must have fresh, able men to carry out assignments effectively, regardless of the system or formations used—whether in the Army "T" or the Navy "Single wing."

Army's mastery of the "T" this season has made it a more powerful offensive machine than Navy's veteran single wing outfit, on the basis of their respective showings against three opponents whom both played—Duke, Pennsylvania and Notre Dame. Against that trio, the cadets totalled 148 points to 14. Navy registered 65 to 13.

SUPERIOR BACKFIELD

SOME Navy supporters insist that the middies "softened up" these, three opponents for Army by meeting them first and giving them a thorough physical and psychological hammering. We'll take that with a touch of garlic, knowing that a defeat often evaporates over confidence and sends a team back to the gridiron—fighting.

Army apparently has a superior backfield corps. Doug Kenna, out of action with injuries last season, has given the Cadets improved quarter backing and passing. The injection of big, fast Doc Blanchard into the lineup was the biggest individual improvement in the '44 team. Doc is one of the most explosively powerful backs ever seen at the point—an All-American full back. We might mention also that half back Glenn Davis is the nation's leading college point scorer, with 114 points to his credit this season. These backs apparently were made to order for the precise, lightning strokes of the T.

Navy has excellent backfield performers also in Jenkins, Hamberg, Scott, Duden, Barksdale, Barron, Earley, Smith, Ellsworth and Pettit. Little Hal Hamberg's passing and punting may give the Sailors a slight edge in those departments; but we do not believe that the menace of their running attack can compare with that of Army.

NAVY DEPENDS UPON LINE

NAVY'S team — only slightly different from last year — again depends much upon its powerful, punishing line. But this time Army is well fortified in the forward wall also. It must be remembered that Duke, Pennsylvania and Notre Dome registered only a total of 14 points against the Cadets, just one more than the trio achieved against Navy.

In group strength we rate Army's line equal in ends, also in tackels (despite the presence of Navy's Don Whitmire), superior in guards (due to John Green and Joe Stanswicz), but inferior at centre where Navy's Jack Martin stands out.

Tossing out Navy's early defeats by North Carolina Pre-Flight and a Georgia Tech, when the middle machine wasn't clicking, we believe that Navy still hasn't mastered its single wing like Army has the "T". Moreover, we believe that the "T" is superior to the single wing, all other things being equal. We say that Army is at least the equal of Navy in manpower, defence and fundamentals; but that the Cadets are about two touchdowns superior offensively.

TORONTO, Nov. 29. — (CP) — Competition on western race tracks might not be as keen as that on tracks in eastern Canada and the United States, but it's just as tough, says little Bobby Summers of Winnipeg. The classy jockey returned home the other day after a triumphant 16-month stand on eastern tracks.

Syd Thomas

Summers told Bill Good of the Winnipeg Tribune that the western thoroughbred circuit is as tough as any on the continent, although the calibre of the nags isn't as high. There is more chance of getting hurt on the small western tracks—most are of the half-mile variety—and the jockeys aren't as capable and careful as the experts in the big time, naturally.

Summers is one of the group of Western Canadian riders who have made good in the big circuit. George Woolf, Johnny Longden, Eddie and Herb Litzenberger are some of the others, who got their groundwork on tracks in Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

ARCLIGHT RUGBY?

A suggestion that night football and longer schedules may have to be adopted in Ontario has been put forward by Tommy Moore in the Hamilton Spectator. It will be impossible for a team to keep on an even keel financially playing only three games a season, says Moore, because "no longer do the athletes play for glory and tin cups." At least two games a week would have to be played to extend the schedule, and night ball is the only solution—there's a certain law against playing anything on Sundays.

INCIDENTALLY:

When Cap'n Jim Sutherland of Kingston, Ont., appeared at the Ontario Hockey Association annual meeting in Toronto, it was his 55th appearance at the yearly confab. Guess what Cap'n Jim, staunch lover of Kingston's Hockey Hall of Fame, talked about.

Jimmy Orlando, storm centre of that celebrated military service case early in the war, is stationed at Camp Debert, N.S., with the Canadian Army now. He isn't playing hockey though. The former Detroit Red Winger is in bed with several broken bones plaster-casted after a motorcycle accident. . . . Before Ottawa Glebe Collegiate and West Hill High of Montreal, they were talking of the wonderful opportunities the schoolboys had for promoting amity and understanding on the football field. That faded painfully in a riproaring dispute between the two centres, with one of the Montreal referees calling the Ottawans "stuffed shirts" and other things.

Fight Draw

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. — (CP) — Phil Palmer, 139½, Vancouver, B.C., and George La Rover, 139, Philadelphia, fought to a draw in an eight round boxing bout at the Broadway arena in Brooklyn Tuesday night.

"All right—confound it! You and your mother drive, then!"

Idol of Mexican Race Fans

Hipodromo de las Americas Pays Tribute to Capt. O'Hay

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27.—The death of Captain Patrick Irving O'Hay, "Soldier of Fortune" character in Richard Harding Davis' novel of that name, was mourned deeply in this ancient Aztec capital. The 74-year-old resident of Taos, New Mexico, was the ideal of Mexico's racing patrons.

No finer tribute was ever paid to an American than that which was tendered to the memory of Capt. O'Hay at the Hipodromo de las Americas. When taps was sounded by the bugler before the feature race after President Bruno Pagliai had delivered his message of condolence over the public address system, the packed stands stood for a full minute in silence.

Capt. O'Hay was regarded as one of the most colorful figures in racing. When Capt. O'Hay first came to Mexico he brought with him the horse, Gay Dalton, a colt which was destined to give him a new start to fame and fortune. Capt. O'Hay never lived in reality. To him life was an adventure— glamorous and wonderful. Gay Dalton was just another incident to strengthen his belief in that all beings were kind and helpful.

With Gay Dalton he won something like $50,000 and all of it in Mexico. At the time Gay Dalton came into his life, the Captain was not a rich man. Gay Dalton came to New Mexico in foal to Traumerette, purchased by H. Greenlee at the Pat Nash dispersal sale in Kentucky. The mare was taken to the Greenlee Farm in New Mexico, and there Gay Dalton was foaled on Feb. 20, 1940.

Capt. O'Hay was intensely interested not only by the W. S. Kilmer side of the breeding but because of the fact Gay Dalton was the son of American Flag, which, of course was sired by Man O'War. The Captain wanted this finely-bred offspring more than anything. He did not have the wherewithal but he knew a couple of old pals. Gaylord Burt who had six kids and worked for the Tros light company and Dalton Denton, a gas station employee.

Among the three of them their credit was good enough to borrow $900 from the local bank, and the yearling colt which was named for the two friends, Gaylord and Dalton, found a new home. Gay Dalton was not raced as a two-year-old. He practically is a native son, for all of his racing has been done at the Hipodromo de las Americas. He went to the post for the first time on March 7, 1943 and moved right into the winner's circle. In all, he won seven races in 12 starts as a three-year-old. Last season at four, he established himself as the outstanding thoroughbred here. He started eight times and won six times, five being stakes to include the 125,000 pesos added Handicap de las Americas ($26,000), and the Handicap Presidencial with 136 pounds, the highest weight ever carried by a winning thoroughbred at the Hipodromo.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. — (AP) — Lieut. Joe Maniaci of the Bainbridge Navy Commodores tells this one about a golf game with Jimmy Demaret, Bob Hope and Bing Crosby when the visited the west coast with Chicago Bears . . . On the first hole Hope asked his caddie the distance, teed up his ball and proceeded to slice it a mile out of bounds. . . . On the second he again asked, then hooked beyond the boundary. . . . Each time Bob decided there wasn't any use playing out the hole after such a bad start. . . . On the third tee, Hope again asked his caddie how far it was to the cup. . . . "Mistah Hope," replied the youngster, "you don't want to know how long this hole is; you want to know how wide."

Pravda Denounces Polish Exile Govt.

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Russia served notice through the columns of Pravda today that the Polish government in London had become a hostile political force with which any future negotiations were obviously impossible.

Accusing Polish reactionaries of a scheme to split the Allies and foster a new war, Pravda said it looked upon the withdrawal of Stanislaw Mikolajczyk as premier as destroying the last hopes of rapprochement with the London regime.

Mikolajczyk received gentle treatment in Pravda's discussion and apparently the possibility was envisaged that he and a number of other members of the Peasant party abroad might go to Lublin, the seat of the Soviet-sponsored Committee of National Liberation.

There was no evidence here to indicate doubt that he would be welcomed by the committee if he chose to join it.

"Zombies Forever," Assert Marchers

PORT ALBERNI, B.C., Nov. 29.—(CP)—About 200 home defence troops paraded through this Vancouver Island town last night carrying such anti-conscription banners as "Down With Ralston and His Gang" and "We'll Be Zombies Forever."

The paraders sang but there was no disorder or violence during the hour-long demonstration. The only "incident" occurred when the men marched past the Canadian Legion Auxiliary Services hall where they all "booed."

Most of the demonstrators were members of a French-Canadian regiment from Quebec. A few were members of English-speaking units stationed here. The demonstrators represented only a small portion of the troops here.

Civilian and military police watched the parade and the only interference was when an MP's took a camera from a soldier.

Walker Throws Carrier For Loss On 33 Attempts

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.— Howie Odell says Paul Walker of Yale could take care of the entire side of the line on which he plays, adds that the Oak Park, Ill., high school product would be a regular on any team at any position.

No fewer than 33 times this fall Paul Frederick Walker, all end, broke through to drop the ball-carrier for losses averaging five yards.

The 19-year-old, six-foot three, 202-pound Walker has thrown the key block on the majority of plays, spilled the backer-up even if the play got no farther than the line of scrimmage.

Yale's Big Boy Blue has handled a good share of the punting. Deenie his size, he does the 100 in just a shade more than 10 seconds.

Walker, a handsome chap, is captain-elect of the 1944-45 basketball team and was high scorer of last year's squad. He is the regular first baseman in baseball, so it is easily understood why he is such a speech pass-snatcher and ball-handler.

EARNED THREE LETTERS

Son of a football-playing father—Fred M. performed with great Chicago varsities of a generation ago and coached Williams—Paul F. last year became the first athlete in Blue history to earn three letters as a freshman. Eligible because of a Navy ruling for only the last four games of the campaign, he won considerable All-America attention. His brother, Blake, quarterbacked the Elis in 1942-43.

Despite the fact that Coach Odell's biggest handicap was the lack of a passer, Walker caught 25 for a gain of 278 yards.

The most closely watched man on the premises, he made several touchdowns. He took a pass for a touchdown which enabled the Bulldog to edge North Carolina and go into the finale with Virginia unbeaten and untied for the first time since 1923. Intercepting a lateral against Columbia, he raced 69 yards to a touchdown.

FOUR PUNTS RETURNED

Only four of Walker's punts were returned and for a total of no more than 20 yards. They either had such altitude that linemen had plenty of time to get downfield under them or the ball was booted out of bounds.

Walker averaged four yards rushing from punt formation.

A Navy V-12 and a junior in college, this is Walker's last year under the accelerated plan. He has an average of better than 90 in an exceptionally difficult chemical engineering course. He was top man in a class of more than 700 at Oak Park High. He is a Deacon of Yale's undergraduate church.

An inspirational leader extremely well liked and admired by coaches and teammates, every play was the ball game to Paul Walker, All-America football player and boy.

CAHA Discusses Allan Cup Finals With Coast Group

TORONTO, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Representatives of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association met with representatives of the Vancouver Exhibition Association here Tuesday to discuss the possibility of holding the Allan cup final series for the Canadian amateur hockey championship in Vancouver next spring.

Final decision will be made by the CAHA executive committee at a Christmas week meeting here. If Vancouver is chosen as series venue, it will be that city's first Allan cup final since 1933.

Representatives of the Exhibition Association were Mac Bowel, F. Gross and Sid McLennan, while President Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, treasurer George S. Dudley of Midland, Ont., secretary Fred Marples and W. A. Hewitt of Toronto spoke for the CAHA.

President Sargent clarified an earlier statement concerning the Memorial cup junior championship series. "I want to correct the impression that the Memorial cup games have already been awarded to Toronto," he said, "but I did say that I will recommend to our executive meeting that the Memorial cup games again be played at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto."

When the International president was in London, the Lord Mayor requested the Rotary clubs on this continent to send men's clothing for bombed out areas. Air Trainees in States

Accents, Brogues Just Not English

Find Language Confusing

Canadians training with the Royal Naval Air Arm at Jacksonville and Pensacola, Florida, are performing an important and unique duty.

They are serving in the capacity of "interpreters", and "translating" English as spoken in certain English counties into English as spoken in Florida, Texas and other states of the Union where there's a distinction tongue "flavoring."

That's the semi-serious word brought back from Florida training bases by Sub-Lt. (A) Ross McBain, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, now spending a few days of leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McBain of 11807 Saskatchewan Drive.

COMPLETE TRAINING

Sub-Lt. McBain is one of three Edmonton youths who have just completed operational training for the Royal Navy Fleet Air Arm in the U.S.A.

Glen Hutton and Bill Asbridge, two other South Side boys, have also been training with the Royal Navy Air Arm in the States. Both are sub-lieutenants. Asbridge is now on operational duty overseas while Hutton is in the same squadron as McBain.

Accents and brogues of the English tongue from both the old and new worlds created humorously confusing situations at the stations in the U.S.A., where a large number of British fleet air arm students are training, Sub-Lt. McBain said.

"At first the American instructors had a heck of a time understanding and making themselves understood with many of the English trainees. So we Canadians came to the rescue and acted as interpreters," the young Edmonton officer explained with a laugh.

"We have received a marvellous training in the States," he continued.

"Nearly all of our instructors are men who have served in the South Pacific, at Bougainville, Siapan and the other sea-air battles of the war against Japan. One of my instructors had 13 Zeros to his credit."

The British and Canadians are training in Corsair single seater fighters that operate from aircraft carriers.

Operational training was obtained at Detroit, Pensacola and Jacksonville.

Sub-Lt. McBain, who enlisted in the navy in May of 1943, hopes to transfer back to the Royal Canadian Navy, soon.

Previous to training in the USA he had received pre-flight training in Britain.

A former carrier boy with The Edmonton Bulletin Sub-Lt. McBain went directly from high school into the service.

Heavy Northland Traffic Forecast

Heavy northern transportation business is anticipated by C. H. "Punch" Dickins, OBE, Montreal, vice-president and managing-director, Canadian Pacific Air Lines Ltd., who arrived here Tuesday in the course of an inspection of west coast services.

He visited Vancouver and other Pacific coast points during his tour, and arrived here from Whitehorse, Yukon Territory. He plans to make a trip with Capt. W. R. May, OBE, DFC, superintendent of the Mackenzie division.

Mr. Dickins said he was very interested in the opening of the winter operating service in the north and said operations would benefit considerably from the new landing field at Yellowknife.

He expressed satisfaction over the report that the first air mail trip of the winter season to Aklavik had been completed earlier than ever previously in the history of such northern service.

Commencing on services from Edmonton and the company set-up here, Mr. Dickins said, they were being maintained and no changes were contemplated.

Soldier Nominees Are Nearly Ready

Complete returns of nominations by Alberta servicemen of candidates for three armed service seats in the Legislature are expected in Edmonton soon, it was learned Wednesday.

Robert A. Andison, chief electoral officer for the province, has cabled James Thomson, chief returning officer for the vote, who is stationed in London, to cable the nominations here as soon as possible. Mr. Thomson will receive returns from Phil Danis, returning officer for France and Belgium, David Duncan, in Italy, and A. P. Van Buren, Calgary, for other areas in which Alberta men are serving.

The nominations closed Nov. 20, but returning officers are accepting names mailed before the "cut-off" date, but received afterwards.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

Capt. H. J. Bishop, 11019 83 avenue, who has been serving in Italy for the last year, is at present employed in touring Canadian units and lecturing to the troops on rehabilitation.

The annual meeting of the War Services Council of Northern Alberta will be held in the children's section of the Public Library Thursday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. All organizations interested in this work are invited to send delegates to the meeting, with one vote allowed one delegate, although more may attend.

A. D. Winspear, brother of Francis and Mary Winspear, of Edmonton, will address an open meeting of the Allied Arts Council in the South Side Library tonight at 8 o'clock. Connected with the Abraham Lincoln College in Chicago, Mr. Winspear was born at Birmingham, England, and is a Rhodes Scholar. For 11 years he was a professor of classics at the University of Wisconsin.

It was announced at the Tuesday meeting of the Y's Men's Club that proceeds from the club's Christmas tree sales project will be used for erecting buildings on the new YM CA boys' camp site at Jackfish Bay on Lake Wabamun. The trees will be distributed from about 15 depots scattered throughout the city, in locations convenient for citizens.

Two Soldiers Back From Overseas Duty

Cpl. Rodney B. Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Stevenson, 10673 128 street, and Sgt. W. Purvis, son of W. J. Purvis of Clairmont, both members of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, returned to the city Monday night. Wearing gold wound stripes, the two men are veterans of the Italian and Sicilian campaigns.

Commenting on the anti-conscription demonstrations, Sgt. Purvis who has been overseas for five years and twice wounded in battle said the men who have been carrying the load this far figure it is about time they were given a rest.

PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD

"What ya complainin' about? You never had breakfast in bed in CIVILIAN life, did you?"

Edmonton Nurse At Front With Field Hospital

Work amidst the roar of artillery and the sound of German shellfire at the field hospital near the front was recently described at the 50th US General hospital in France by Second Lieutenant Joan M. Greenwood, Army Nurse Corps, 9633 106 street.

Lt. Greenwood, who was on temporary duty there, is now nurse in charge of a tent ward here housing thirty patients.

"It was tremendously exciting, working that near the front," she said. "We worked long, hard hours doing things I once would have thought humanly impossible. I was on the shock team there, getting wounded soldiers as soon as they were brought in—giving plasma, blood transfusions, taking blood pressures, changing bandages all day long and sometimes late into the night.

PLANES OVERHEAD

"German planes would fly overhead at night and drop bombs on targets somewhere in the region, causing our tent walls to billow in and out with the concussion as we worked. Their 88's would fire and our artillery would answer them from places fairly nearby, so the thrills and fears of one day were soon forgotten in the excitement of the next day."

Lt. Greenwood was stationed in Missouri, Colorado, Kansas and England before arriving in France. Prior to her appointment in the Army Nurse Corps 26 months ago, she was on the nursing staff of the Port Angeles General Hospital, Port Angeles, Washington. Her brother Guy is a leading aircraftsman with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Guy Greenwood, live at the Edmonton address.

City Woman Back From North Point

Miss L. M. Coombs, 205 Kitchener block, said Wednesday it was a grand feeling to see the beautiful lights of Edmonton when she returned to the city by air from Norman Wells after 13 months in the north.

Before leaving Edmonton in September, 1943, Miss Coombs worked for Aircraft Repair Ltd. She says she got the idea when a school teacher friend who had been there, said to her one day, how about going north? Five weeks later she was on board a plane heading for the oil fields, Miss Coombs said.

At Norman Wells Miss Coombs worked in the dining-room, the latter part of the period as a checker. There were 720 diners, she said, and each one had a number.

A dance, with a good band, every two weeks, provided welcome recreation, as there was not much else to do, she said.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

A recent police report states 701 "tags" have been issued to cyclists in Edmonton since the beginning of the year. Do you approve of such "tagging"?

THE ANSWERS

DONALD E. PIKE, visitor: Any type of vehicle, or any person who uses a public thoroughfare should be governed by traffic regulations for that thoroughfare. In my home, in the east, cyclists run wild in the downtown sections as well as in the suburbs. I for one would be very glad to see a little police action to curb such reckless, dangerous riding on the part of cyclists.

* * *

HUBERT WILSON, student: Certainly cyclists should be expected to conform to traffic laws. I think though, that motorists generally dislike bicycle riders, and don't give them a fair chance on the city streets.

* * *

SYLVIA PATTON, store clerk: I think cyclists should be made to carry lights on their machines, and they should be made to stay off the sidewalks. Downtown, they seem to me to conform pretty well to traffic rules. There are more motorists who break the law than there are cyclists.

Edmonton Soldier Is Serving in Italy

S.-Sgt. Harry Ego, 10129 106 Ave., Edmonton, who served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the last war, is now in Italy with the 1st Canadian Special Construction Company, RCE.

He went to England with the Veterans' Guard but managed to transfer to the Active Army and has been in Italy for the past year.

He is the chief fitter for the unit and his job entails welding and machining.

Several months ago when a steam roller was required for road work by the Canadian Army one was secured from the Italians and Harry installed an old auto engine and put the roller in running order.

He has two sons, both serving in the Navy.

Murder Case To Go Before Jury Today

Pte. Edgar Whitford, MM, a member of the Veterans' Guard of Canada, on trial before Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd and a supreme court jury on a charge of murdering Charlotte Hunter, Goodfish Lake district Cree Indian, testified that he had no recollection of anything after two members of the party of five had left the Grierson dump.

He recalled facts of the drinking party prior to that period, but was without recollection of struggling with the deceased girl, and had little recollection of how he managed to leave the scene of the alleged murder.

He was questioned by defence counsel, Hugh Calais Macdonald, KC, concerning the clothing he was wearing on the night of Sept. 2 last. Whitford said that the clothes he wore then had not been washed from that date to the time of his arrest.

LABORATORY TESTS

These articles of clothing had been sent by the police to University of Alberta authorities for examination and were found to be without stains of blood.

Clothes worn by the deceased on that night were stained with blood, according to evidence given by Dr. J. M. MacGregor, University of Alberta. Det. William McDonald told the court that as far as the police knew the accused had no opportunity to have his clothes washed between the period of the alleged crime and his arrest.

Earlier in the day Fred Leveille, also charged with murder, told the court that he saw Whitford's hand placed across the deceased's mouth to stop her from screaming. He said that he pulled Whitford off the girl, and that when he lifted her she went limp, and he thought she was dead.

Counsel for the accused will address the jury at the opening of court Wednesday, and it is anticipated that the case will go to the jury early Wednesday morning.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Beware of Wishy-Washy Unreliable Type Man

Soldier Blown About by Every Passion Is Not Good Husband Material; Girls Should Beware

DEAR MISS DIX: About two years ago my daughter met and fell in love with a young man who appeared to be in love with her, though there was no definite understanding. He was inducted into the army and for a while he wrote to her. Then he stopped. Twice he came home on furloughs, but never came to see her. Then, suddenly, he appeared again on the scene and gave her a whirlwind courtship and they became engaged.

He returned to his base and wrote breaking off the engagement. Said there was another girl. Then he made up again, and so on. So my daughter doesn't know where she stands and is very unhappy over the affair. What would do advise her to do? MOTHER.

Answer: I would earnestly advise her to call off the whole affair and to break definitely and for good with the young man. Evidently he is one of the wishy-washy kind of people who never know their own minds and who are blown about by every gust of passion.

No woman can be happy with the on again, off again, gone again husband. What a wife wants in marriage is security. She wants to feel that her husband is loyal to her and that she can trust him anywhere, under any circumstances and amidst any conditions. No women are more unhappy than those who continually have to be forgiving their husbands for their philanderings and trying to befool themselves into believing their husbands' promises that they will never look at another woman again.

This young man upon whom your daughter has set her heart is poor husband material, and while it may cause her a wrench to break with him and some heartches and bitter tears now, it will save her from the cruelest torment that a woman ever endures, and that is never being certain of a husband's affections and whether she is the current love or some other woman has temporary possession of his heart.

HUSBAND ALIVE

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 23 years old. I married a service man and soon after he was sent overseas, I was notified that he had been killed in action. I waited a year and then was remarried. My second husband also was called into the service. Now I have received a cable from my first husband saying that he is alive and well and on his way home. My second husband knows of this, but my first husband, whom I believed dead, doesn't know of my second marriage.

Now I can't be sure which one means the most to me. There are no children involved in either marriage. Should I notify my first husband of my second marriage? I am at a loss to know what to do.

BEWILDERED WIFE.

Answer: Certainly you should cable your No. 1 husband at once that, believing him dead, you had married again. For it would be too cruel a shock to let him come home thinking that he was returning to a waiting wife and to discover that she had consoled herself with another mate.

Your conduct in the whole matter has been blameless and if anybody is at fault in this queer mixup, it is your first husband who let you believe him to be dead when he was very much alive. He certainly showed little consideration for your feelings if he let you mourn him as lost when he could have saved you the tears of widowhood by writing to you that he was safe and well.

So in trying to decide b..tween the two husbands and pick out the one you want to keep, you will do well to consider the temperaments and characteristics of the two men and which one will be the safest to tie to.

Then, of course, the law will have a say-so in the matter, for the Enoch Arden motive seems to have more complications in real life than it does in poetry.

FALLS DOWN

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married eleven years and am a good wife, mother, housekeeper and business assistant. I make good on all these counts, but I seem to fail down on being a woman, for my husband seems to regard me as only a household convenience and a super-sales woman. He never shows me any affection and never takes me out anywhere for an evening if he can help himself. He never pays me a compliment, yet he depends on my judgment in business. Otherwise I think I bore him to extinction. What's the matter?

Answer: Perhaps you and your husband see too much of each other and he is fed up with your society. Or perhaps he is jealous of your being a better business man than he is. Few men enjoy looking up to their wives.

OVEREATING AND MALNUTRITION

Continuing yesterday's talk (Obesity is Malnutrition) here are some scientific observations for everybody who carries superfluous flesh to consider:

1. Obesity is malnutrition.

2. More than half or the calories in the average American diet are from refined carbohydrate—starch or sugar.

3. More than half of the calories in the diet of Americans 100 years ago were from carbohydrate, but not refined carbohydrate. People in those days ate whole wheat flour —wheat ground in the old stone grist mill, with nothing removed. They ate brown sugar and molasses from which nothing was removed in refining.

4. So, as Dr. Norman Jolliffe expressed it:

"It seems, therefore, that a 35 per cent. fraction of the calories in the American diet of 1840 containing a minimum of 600 international units of vitamin B, has been replaced in the contemporaneous American diet by a like fraction containing only about 50 international units."

5 Although our great-grandparents didn't know it they got their vitamins in their bread, sugar and molasses.

6. As Dr. Robert R. Williams expressed it: "Man commits a crime against nature when he eats the starch from the seed" (hard wheat refined white flour is, mainly) "and throws away the mechanism for the metabolism of that starch." The vitamin B-complex, in which wheat is rich, particularly the wheat germ and the bran and outer coat of the kernel—which is thrown away when hamby-pamby white flour is made from wheat—is indispensable for normal utilization of carbohydrate, especially thiamin (B), and probably other entities or factors of the natural B-complex.

7. If you eat plain wheat, whole wheat from which nothing is removed or discarded, you get your vitamins, all right. Likewise if you eat real old-fashioned maple brown sugar or old-fashioned molasses (if you can find such unpopular groceries) you will get not only good amounts of vitamin B-complex but also more of the calcium which refined food fails to provide.

8. Individuals who are overweight are too fond of starches and sugars are usually pleased to find that when they increase their vitamin intake they presently find that their appetite, hunger or craving for starch or sugar is satisfied with considerably less carbohydrate than they have habitually consumed This is so because an increased vitmin intake increases better metabolism, oxidation, utilization of the food, so they burn it up instead of storing it as fat.

9. For years I have been trying to teach people that vitamin B1 is "poor man's insulin"—meaning that it promotes utilization of carbohydrate (as insulin does) for the production of energy.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is almost certain that a baby who eats and sleeps on a three or four-hour schedule will have his fussy period from four to six o'clock in the afternoon.

This is baby's most wakeful period. He has had two long naps. He has been out of doors. He has had his bath. At this time he and his mother both are somewhat at loose ends waiting for the day to end and for it to be time to put him to bed for the night.

Instead of suffering through this period with a baby crying most of the time, make it the period in the day when the baby gets his affectionate handling from the parent. At least, even if he is not held some of the time, he should be outside of his bassinet, lying on the davenport, or in his carriage in the kitchen, or on a big bed, so that he may discover variations in his new world. It is this stimulation, the talking to or singing he gets from his mother, that makes him other than a lump of flesh. It develops his own affectionate responses and makes a human being of him.

This period may be a pleasant one. Presumably it will be spent indoors at this time of year. If baby has a carriage he may be placed in this and moved from place to place about the house so that he sees new sights and is enchanted by them.

If mother is in the kitchen, and probably she will be, the baby can be in there with her. If he is old enough for handling toys he'll love the bright kitchen utensils that may be put in his hands, the strainer, the small pans, the tea-ball, a clothes pin, a wooden spoon, they are all new and interesting.

When he begins to fuss, change his environment. Take him out of the carriage and lay him on a pad on the floor. He'll like that for a time. Then on the davenport or some place from which he can see out of doors.

At 5:30 undress him for the night and give him a swift, gentle massage. If he has on few clothes in a warm room he'll be excitingly active, dieging in his heels and pushing himself about. Then when he has exhausted the possibilities of such play and exercise, dress him in fresh, unwrinkled garments and bring him his warm bottle. He'll be ready to attack that with vigor and eat himself into a state of blissful slumber.

Our leaflet, "The First Six Weeks", should help mothers in getting the new baby started rightly. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

Minute Make-Ups

Watch that calendar! Just a minute now! Have you got all the gifts? Here are some cosmetic suggestions. Two lipsticks, day and night shades, tied with lovely ribbons, even little bottles of nail polish, one for each day in the week. A bottle of violet water wrapped in green tissue and tied with violet ribbons. A huge bunch of Holly is always pretty but if tied together with Holly-red ribbon it is twice as pretty! A big red velvet rose, sprayed with rose perfume can go in a white and red tissue package. It's to be worn either on the head or on a muff!

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Peter Leventritt, one of the winners of the world championship Masters pair event, said there was quite a discussion at the Cavendish Club in New York about today's hand.

The opening spade lead was won by East with the ace. A club was returned, declarer went up with the king, West won and returned a diamond. Dummy's ace won, the queen of spades was cashed and the jack of diamonds discarded.

Declarer now had lost two tricks, and he was in dummy for the last time. He can finesse either the heart or the club, or refuse to finesse either and try to drop either the queen of hearts or jack of clubs. Which is the best percentage play?

If declarer is going to take a finesse, I would favor the heart. If he thought that East held the jack of clubs, he should play low on the first club trick instead of going up with the king. However, in my opinion the percentage favors banging down the ace and king of hearts and the queen of clubs, with either the queen of hearts or jack of clubs falling. But the boys are still arguing about this one. That is why I am passing it on to you.

Baby Drowns

EAST HELENA, Mont., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Kleffner was bathing her two-month-old daughter when she heard a crash. Placing the child on the side of the bathinette she went to investigate and found a prairie chicken had plunged through a glass door. She returned to discover the baby had slipped into the water and drowned.

British Empire In "The Red" But Not Broke

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP) "The British Empire is running "in the red", but is not "broke", Harold Butler, British minister to the United States, said yesterday at a news conference. At the same time he expressed doubt that Britain's economy could be restored by 1950.

Meeting newsmen after the release of a British government white paper covering British contribution to the war effort, Mr. Butler indicated his people would not need post-war civilian lend-lease to get them back on an even economic keel.

Interpreting the British white paper, he declared that the figures do not show that the British Empire is broke. He added that the British do not intend to obtain lend-lease goods for re-export.

GRANT SUGGESTED

So far as he knows, he said, there is no consideration now among officials here for a "grant in aid" of several billion dollars to help get Britain back on her feet quickly after the war. Such a grant has been suggested by Winthrop Aldrich, New York financier.

The white paper showed Britain has disposed of overseas assets totalling about $4,792,000,000 to help finance the war up to the time they started getting lend-lease, and that they have also run up liabilities abroad mounting to about $10,000,000. This makes a total of about $15,142,000,000 which they no longer have to draw upon.

Mr. Butler said the war savings in which the British people had invested, will be extremely useful for national recovery in the immediate post-war years by stimulating production of things the British people want.

INITIAL PURCHASES

Initial British purchases abroad probably will include considerable timber in Scandinavia and Russia and some necessities from this side of the Atlantic but Mr. Butler said that British imports would have to be tailored to fit Britain's ability to pay and he did not foresee a chance of importing any luxury items.

As for his country's over-all financial position at the moment he said that "we are going more and more into the red and will continue to do so until the end of the Japanese war."

Officials Probing Anti-Draft Parade Staged at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A defence department spokesman said yesterday that investigations are being made into an anti-conscription parade here Monday night by a group of service troops variously estimated to number 50 to 100 men.

It was understood the men were all employed at the base post office and that all were at their work yesterday.

The parade, which was reported marked by a few scuffles between home defence and active service troops and civilians, formed up first on Bank street within a few blocks of its starting point at Lansdowne Park district depot.

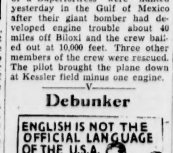
Crew of Fortress Sought in Gulf

BILOXI, Miss., Nov. 29—(AP)—Eight members of the 12-man crew of a Superfortress were hunted yesterday in the Gulf of Mexico after their giant bomber had developed engine trouble about 40 miles off Biloxi and the crew bailed out at 10,000 feet. Three other members of the crew were rescued. The pilot brought the plane down at Kessler field minus one engine.

Debunker



Europeans have long pointed out that the language spoken in the United States and other parts of North America is not English, but is a new language created by the Americans themselves; but it remained for the Senate of Illinois to verify the fact when they passed a bill in the 1923 Legislature officially changing the name of the language of that State from "English" to "American". "What a daily shame" an English visitor commented.

Mosher Disturbed Over Possibilities Of Unemployment

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A. R. Mosher of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in an interview here yesterday that he was "frankly disturbed" that no definite program had been prepared by the government to take care of post-war employment.

"You can't inject something into a man's arm and say you won't be unemployed," Mr. Mosher said. "You can't immunize people against unemployment."

Mr. Mosher said there would be a "catastrophic situation" unless something was done immediately to put people who were employed in war industries into civilian production.

Furs From Soviet

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The first direct shipment of furs to Toronto from the Soviet Union, a lot worth about $25,000, was received yesterday by the Russian Fur Company, Ltd. Previously Soviet fur shipments had been received in Canada through New York buyers, and the change is expected to effect savings up to 25 per cent to local consumers.

Princess Cites Rise of Canada

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Princess Alice, wife of Canada's Governor General, last night told members of the United States English Speaking Union of Canada's "unprecedented rise in stature" during the war years.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the union, which also marked the opening of its new headquarters here, her Royal Highness said:

"To a great country like yours, the actual figures in men, women and material may not seem a great deal, but when looked at in proportion to the population and development of Canada in 1939, it is no mean achievement and I am glad to have been in a position to have watched its growth."

Princess Alice cited President Roosevelt's name for Canada—"the aerodrome of democracy"—and said: "That aerodrome has produced more than 200,000 pilots, navigators, observers, wireless members of airerews and mechanics."

AFL President Offers to Quit To Gain Unity

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29—(AP)—President William Green, in a fervent bid for union with the CIO and United Mine Workers, offered yesterday to quit the helm of the American Federation of Labor if it would lead to labor solidarity.

Mr. Green, deploring the reception accorded to his other pleas for unity by CIO president Philip Murray, and asserting he had been subjected to unprecedented attack by UMW president Joan L. Lewis, told the AFL convention he is ready "willing to go" as president after 20 years in the office if it would bring about a combination of forces

Embezzler Gets Year in Prison

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29—(AP)—Joseph Marshall, 48, a bank cashier, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of embezzling $26,000, saying he couldn't "live within my salary" after a $6,600 Irish sweepstakes win in 1938 prompted him to "extravagant living." He was sentenced to a year in prison.

Captives' Supplies Arrive in Japan

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A $1,500,000 cargo of supplies for Canadian prisoners of war has reached Kobe, Japan, after transfer at Nakhodka, Soviet port 100 miles east of Vladivostok, it was announced last night by Norman C. Urquhart, chairman of the Canadian Red Cross national executive committee.

The relief supplies, 2,600 cases weighing 232 tons, included food parcels, drugs and medical supplies, clothing, books, recreational supplies and 1,000,000 cigarettes.

The supplies were despatched from a west coast United States port via Russian ships to Vladivostok after other methods of sending them to Japan had been rejected by the Japanese government.

Mr. Urquhart said he had been informed that a representative of the International Red Cross met the consignment at Kobe to direct the forwarding of supplies to prisoners.

A large gathering attended the annual grand St. Andrew's concert and dance in All Saints parish hall on Saturday evening, sponsored by the Orkney, Shetland and Caithness Society.

Varsity Students Hear John Barnett

On Tuesday afternoon the students of the faculty of education of the University of Alberta held a meeting in St. Joseph's College to hear John Barnett, general secretary of the Alberta Teacher's Association speak on that organization. Mr. Barnett was introduced by Peggy Haynes, president of the Education Club.

Mr. Barnett outlined briefly the history of the ATA in Alberta. Starting in 1917, the Alberta Teacher's Association has gradually reached many of its objectives. Some of the things which the Association has accomplished in Alberta is legal status, a monthly magazine, the larger school division, and laws regarding the employment and dismissal of teachers under contract.

Mr. Barnett pointed out that at the present time the tendency has been to lower the standard of Normal school qualifications rather than raise the salaries of teachers to attract more people into the profession. The speaker stressed the importance of teachers sticking together in their efforts for better salaries and better conditions.

To illustrate his talk, Mr. Barnett brought some of the first minute books of the ATA association and the first draft of its policy.

The speaker was thanked by Miss Haynes. Members of the faculty of Education who attended the meeting were Dr. M. E. Lazerte, Dean of Education, Dr. K. Argue, Associate professor of Education; and Dr. H. E. Smith, Associate professor of Education and special lecturer in psychology.

The Personal Column

THE BARN took on a wintry aspect Tuesday evening as more than 300 University students attended the Junior prom, the annual formal dance sponsored by the Junior class. Icicles hung from the ceiling, paper cartoons decorated the walls, and even the orchestra members were equipped for the snow season with ski caps and sweaters. Each dance on the novelty programs had special names in accordance with the winter theme. Special lighting effects added to the wintry appearance of the hall. Buses were provided which called at the Tuck shop at 8:30 and 8:40 p.m., and then took the students down 112 street, along Whyte avenue, over the high level bridge to The Barn. Patrons for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. J. M. MacEachran, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Smith, and Dr. Mary Winspear, Dean of Women. The Junior class executive with Ron Helmer as president; Doug. Love, vice-president; Al Spence, secretary-treasurer, and Don Graves, Stan Deakin, and Eric Cuthy on the executive, was responsible for the arrangements. Designs for the programs were done by Glen Cummins.

With Mrs. Dale V. Gaffney, president, a newly formed women's club is starting activities in Edmonton. Made up of the wives of American Army men, the club is called the Air Transport Command Women's club of Edmonton, and is affiliated with the National Association of Air Forces' women.

First in the line of activities planned by the club was a game party held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the officers' club at the U.S. Army Air Base. Various games were held in an effort to get the members acquainted. Mrs. Gaffney and Mrs. Eugene Stevens poured tea, assisted by Mrs. Fred Wright and Mrs. Ted Dunham.

Mrs. Walter Tiser is chairman in charge of arranging all such parties and special activities, and assisting her with details, are Mrs. Norwood Mood, Mrs. H. R. Greiner and Mrs. Marion C. Spradlin.

Mrs. Morris Quick is directing the personal affairs committee of the club. It is her duty to attend to the personal problems of the women of the club. Getting acquainted with wives who newly arrive here, and getting in touch with American women who might not know of the club, is the duty of Mrs. D. F. Gruenhagen.

Thus far, only the wives of the officers have formed into a club, but it is hoped that shortly the wives of the NCO's and enlisted men will become members of the group.

Mrs. Herbert Paterson Is Head Canadian Handicraft Guild Here

Like weaving and metal work, the art of making pottery and china has a long and ancient history. In fact it is considered the oldest artistic craft in the world, said Miss Pauline Malloy, Tuesday afternoon, when she addressed the Canadian Handicraft Guild at its annual meeting held in the Jasper room of the Macdonald hotel.

Mrs. Herbert Paterson was elected president, succeeding Mrs. W. G. McConachie.

Miss Malloy spoke on Pottery and China. She traced its history from the early centuries when the first piece of pottery was made from crude brick of clay mixed with water and pressed into shape, to the now famous pieces of pottery and china being manufactured. She described the coloring and decorating process.

POTTERY INDUSTRY

We are indebted to Josiah Wedgewood, the speaker said, for the establishment of the pottery industry on a solid basis as an exporting business, and for his research and development of the best earthenware. His contemporary and one-time fellow-worker, Josiah Spode, perfected the use of bone-ash in the production of china. Upon the enthusiasm, hard work and artistry of such famous potters as Wedgewood and Spode, of the 18th century, was developed the integrity and fame of England's china and pottery of today.

Mrs. W.A. R. Kerr is honorary president and Mrs. H. W. Hewetson honorary vice-president. Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. Donald Cameron; second vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Sweatlow; third vice-president, Mrs. Ancus Douglas; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Hugh Nash; secretary, Mrs. G. J. Keltie; treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Brett. Executive committee: Mrs. J. Boyd McBride, Mrs. Victor Wright, Mrs. G. J. Hope, Mrs. R. Sandin, Mrs. J. J. Anderson, Mrs. Phillip Jean, Mrs. R. C. Hall, Mrs. R. L. Hoar, Mrs. Emil Skarin, Mrs. H. W. Tye, Mrs. Cyril Kenway, Mrs. A. Bradshaw, Mrs. Jack Hutton, Mrs. Blair Patterson and Miss Eleanor Crawford.

Annual reports will be read at the January meeting, which will be held the fourth Tuesday in the month.

There was a display of Indian work on view, including gloves, children's slippers, purses, lapel ornaments, etc. Anyone wishing to see these articles may get in touch with Mrs. R. C. Hall.

The first prize for the best collection of Indian goods made by Indian children, was won by the Crowfoot Indian school. Second prize was won by St. Bernard Mission at St. Grouard, and third prize for the best individual work sent in, was won by Miss Agnes Browne of Ermine Skin school, Hobbema. Competitions are put on to encourage the children to do better work and to keep up the native crafts.

Beurling To Marry Today

MONTREAL, Nov. 29. — (CP) — George "Buzz" Beurling of neighboring Verdun, fighter ace of the defence of Malta, will be married here today to Mrs. Diana Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Whitthall of Vancouver.

The bride is the widow of Flt.-Lt. Edwin Charles Gardner who was killed three years ago by British anti-aircraft fire on his way back to base after a flight over enemy territory. The wedding will be "extremely quiet."

ATTENDANTS

R. O. Johnston, Montreal businessman, will give the bride away, and A. W. O'Brien of the Montreal Standard, who was a war correspondent overseas while Beurling was running up his score of 31 enemy aircraft destroyed, will be best man. The bride will be unattended.

It is expected the couple will honeymoon in the Laurentians.

Beurling, whose separation from the RCAF was accepted last summer, has since attempted to join the Chinese air force and to rejoin the RAF. He said last week that a stomach injury had led to his medical rejection by the RAF.

Archdeacon Gower-Rees will officiate at the wedding in St. George's Anglican church.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)— Weakness developed chiefly in the mining groups in today's Toronto Exchange market while the industrials, after an early display of mild weakness, were inclined to improve late in the session. The junior golds supplied the bulk of the trade.

Oil Production Of This Province Shows Decrease

Alberta oil production for the first nine months of 1944 was 6,585,842 barrels, a decrease of 722,827 barrels from 1943 production for the same period, according to a report issued Thursday by J. L. Irwin, government supervisor of publications.

Of the 1944 total, 6,255,280 barrels were produced by Turner Valley wells, and 330,562 by wells in other parts of the province. While the Turner Valley production is down 911,400 barrels from the 1943 output, other fields have increased production by 188,573 barrels in the comparative period.

The report states that between 1914 and 1944, Turner Valley produced 69,562,986 barrels of oil, compared to 70,729,805 barrels for the entire province in the same period.

"Turner Valley has been producing oil now for 30 years," Mr. Irwin stated. "While only in the major production class for an oil field The valley, from present indications, appears to be a long way from the finish".

34 WELLS DRILLING

There were 34 wells drilling in the province as at Sept. 30, of which 11 were in Turner Valley and 23 in other fields, the report reveals. In the nine-month period, there were 32 wells in which drilling was completed.

Eleven fields outside Turner Valley are producing oil, according to Mr. Irwin. He states production in these areas, at present insignificant in comparison with Turner Valley, is on the increase, and half of them show considerable promise of not only maintaining present performance, but also of improving it.

In the Vermilion field, rated as "most promising", there were 51 producing wells at Sept. 30. Other notable strikes have been recorded at the Princess well, 120 miles east of Calgary, where production is rated at 200 barrels a day, and at Conrad, 50 miles east of Lethbridge, where two wells are producing a total of 310 barrels a day.

Candidate

FLT.-LT. ALAN BELL

Former Teacher Is Seeking Seat

Flt.-Lt. Neil Alan Bell, RCAF, a candidate for election by servicemen to the Alberta legislature, has made 20 operational trips over Germany and Italy as a member of the famed "Ghost" Squadron.

On his last trip over the Kiel area the crew of his aircraft had to bail out as a result of enemy action, and were interned in Sweden. After a period spent in custody of Swedish authorities, Flt.-Lt. Bell was repatriated and is now in England. He hopes to return to Canada by Christmas.

A former Alberta school teacher, his home is at Benyon, where his mother and a brother reside. After teaching for two years at Three Hills he studied economics at Queen's University. He enlisted in the air force in August, 1941.

Prior to the war he was a well known athlete, playing hockey, baseball, and golf. He was also well-known as a boxer, winning the provincial novice championship in 1932, and the 132 pound class championship at university.

One brother, Flt.-Lt. Alex Bell, is a navigator stationed at Yarmouth, N.S., while a second brother, Sgt. W. A. Bell, is a flight engineer at present on leave in Edmonton.

States Govt. Draft Order Is "Makeshift"

MONTREAL, Nov. 29—(CP)—The federal government order-in-council making 16,000 draftees available for overseas was "makeshift", M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader said before his party's national convention here today.

The reinforcement crisis flowed from "the planlessness of the wartime manpower policies of the government." The order-in-council was both inadequate and inequitable.

"We held the policy of the government was designed to placate political groups rather than to provide maximum protection for our fighting men," said Mr. Coldwell.

DENOUNCED PLAN

"Accordingly we denounced this halting solution to a grave problem, and called for the removal of all distinctions between drafted and volunteer personnel, so that the entire home defence army might be made available for reinforcements overseas."

The CCF however, refused to participate in the Tory campaign of organized hysteria, hatred and abuse. We recognized that this campaign, reeking with political self-seeking, would inevitably divide our people, discourage recruiting and give comfort to the enemy".

The question was whether trained men already conscripted should be made available, on a fair basis, to relieve the men in the front lines. The CCF said this must be done in full measure and therefore condemned the "half-way policy of the government."

V-2 Rocket Sites Dealt New Blow

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP-Reuter)—RAF fighters have struck a new blow at the V-2 (rocket) launching sites in German occupied Holland, the air ministry disclosed last night.

They have extended their attacks to the road and water transport serving these sites with supplies. Their attacks have been complimentary to those by fighters and medium bombers which have raided German railway communications deeper inland in an attempt to paralyze the flow of V-2 components and equipment to launching areas.

The air ministry said it is believed that at least one cargo of V-2 war heads have been destroyed in transit by road.

Exploit Revealed

British 'Human Torpedo' Sank Big Italian Cruiser

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A British human torpedo—manned by Sub-Lt. Malcolm Causer, RNVR, and Able Seaman Harry Smith—sank the 10,000-ton Bolzano, last of the Italian cruisers fitted with eight-inch guns, in Spezia harbor last June 21, the Admiralty disclosed last night.

Sitting astride the torpedo, Causer and Smith went inside the harbor, dived under the Bolzano and fixed the torpedo's warhead to the hull.

Later it was learned Causer had been captured. Smith still is reported missing. The DSO has been awarded Causer and the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal went to Smith.

It was the second known successful "human torpedo" exploit by British naval men. In January, 1943, the Italian Regolo class cruiser Ulpio Traiano was sunk in Palermo harbor. An 8,500-ton transport lying nearby, seriously damaged, later sank.

Britain to Increase Pressure on Japan

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—King George VI declared in a speech at the opening of the new session of parliament today that the British Empire forces now arrayed against Japan will be reinforced "as rapidly and powerfully as possible."

The United Nations, he added, are looking forward with greater confidence than ever before to the final victories "which will give to the peoples of the world the just peace which is our chief desire."

"The United Nations await with sober confidence the unrolling of future events," the King said. "Joined in an unbreakable alliance and fortified by constant collaboration between the governments concerned and by frequent personal meeting between their leaders, they look forward to that day whereon the aggressor will be finally defeated and the whole world can turn to rebuilding prosperity and the maintenance of an unassailable peace."

FORECASTS OF SPEECH

Wearing the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, the King spoke for 13 minutes. He forecast legislation for national insurance, health service and measures for the transition period after the defeat of Germany, including efforts to rehabilitate British export trade. The Queen sat beside him on the throne, wearing a simple black dress because of the recent death of her father, the Earl of Strathmore. She had a single silver fox wrap slung lightly over her shoulders and a single row of pearls and a diamond ornament on her left lapel were the only breaks in the severity of her attire.
